Jagan takes Amaravati land scam fight to SC

Writes to CJI Bobde on the contours of the benami deals; requests his intervention to ensure neutrality of judiciary in Andhra is restored

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

IT is official. The confrontation between the Andhra Pradesh government and the High Court has now snowballed into an open war.

Chief Minister Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy has written a letter to the Chief Justice of India (CJI) S A Bobde apprising him of the recent happenings in the High Court in particular reference to the alleged intervention of sitting Supreme Court judge Justice NV Ramana to protect the interests of Telugu Desam Party (TDP) and its chief N Chandrababu Naidu.

He urged the CJI to look into the material placed before him and consider initiating steps as may be considered fit to ensure the State judiciary's neutrality is maintained.

Revealing this at a press meet late Saturday evening, Principal Advisor to the CM Ajeya Kallam said the government placed material before the Chief Justice of India pinpointing instances of Justice Ramana's proximity to Naidu, his interventions to help TDP, and his acts of judicial impropriety when he served as judge of the High Court in Hyderabad.

This is perhaps the first time that a Chief Minister has written to the CJI against a Supreme Court judge and the Chief Justice and judges of a High Court.

Clarifying that the government's effort is only to sensitise the SC about the acts of a few judges of the High Court, Kallam said the chief minister's letter itself indicates the enormous respect he and his government have towards the judiciary.

However, the letter itself is nothing less than explosive. The Chief Minister explained at length to the CJI that there were various complaints about the "acts of malfeasance" of Naidu and his close associates and as such, his government, elected with a massive mandate, was well within its constitutional rights to scrutinise the erstwhile TDP government's misdeeds.

Narrating the sequence of events, he said a Cabinet Subcommittee, formed to examine the TDP regime's decisions, found that Naidu and others had amassed huge wealth through illegal means, including illegal transactions of purchase of approximately 4,000 acres.

The report was endorsed by the Assembly and the government urged the Centre to order a CBI probe, he recalled, adding it was done so to avoid allegations of political vendetta by the TDP.

From hereon, in his letter, Jagan underscored the role of Justice Ramana and said it was his painful duty to place on record that during the course of enquiries by the Cabinet Sub-Committee and later, various questionable transactions in Amaravati have come to light.

The transactions, Jagan pointed out, took place in the interregnum period between Naidu's swearing-in as CM and public announcement of the capital location in Amaravati. After giving a detailed account of the transactions, the Chief Minister explained how the High Court has stayed through an interim order "further proceedings arising from the Cabinet Sub-Committee report, even after being apprised that the matter is before the Union of India."

Besides, he also brought to the CJI's notice how the High Court Chief Justice Maheswari had stayed further probe on an FIR filed by the Anti-Corruption Bureau against former Advocate General Dammalapati Srinivas and 12 others in the Amaravati scam and even gagged the media from reporting on the contents of the FIR.

Alleging that Justice Ramana's proximity to Naidu is too well-known, he cited former Supreme Court judge Justice Chelameswar who "placed this fact on record with Evidence."

Elaborating on the alleged manipulation of the High Court, Jagan said sittings of the high court including the roster of a few judges were being influenced on important matters relating to the TDP.

The Chief Minister enclosed a detailed annexure to the letter explaining the same citing specific instances.

With Covid +ve cases among students rising, Karnataka suspends Vidyagama

PEARL D'SOUZA & PREEJA PRASAD @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government on Saturday temporarily suspended the Vidyagama programme, affecting 43.94 lakh government schoolchildren across the state, after 34 students tested Covid-positive within a week in Kalaburagi and Belagavi districts.

The continuous learning programme for children in government and aided schools was launched about two months ago by the Education Department to reach out to poor students who don't have access to online education because of lack of gadgets. With Covid cases rising across the state, the Department had asked over two lakh teachers to teach groups of 4-5 students in open air and with Covid norms, like wearing masks and social distancing, in place.

But parents from several districts had complained that the children were increasingly becoming infected while attending Vidyagama classes. Responding to their concerns, Primary and Secondary Education Minister S Suresh Kumar on Saturday said that the scheme will be put on hold temporarily, till the pros and cons are analysed. He reiterated that the programme was launched to help students from economically weaker sections of society. Last month, he had paid a surprise visit to Kallur, Varadenahalli, Bachenahalli, Tagachuguppe, Bantarakuppe Colony, Bantarakuppa, Belugumba and Magadi. P3

Dalit victims of atrocities face double trouble

RAJESH ASNANI & RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ Jaipur/Patna

A Dalit woman in Bhopar village of Rajasthan's Dausa district was allegedly raped by two boys, Mahendra and Jeetram, belonging to the Gujjar community in July 2019.

When her family members lodged an FIR, the dominant caste was so enraged that they burnt her house, thrashed her family members and even threatened to kill all of them. Petrified by the repeated threats, the victim and her family fled to Mahua town, about 10 km from their village, where they eke out a living as labourers earning only ₹500-600 a day.

"We were beaten up and our house was burnt down. We were told that we would be killed if we didn't leave the village. The police took money from the accused and didn't help us. The government also didn't help us," said Mahesh Chand, the victim's brother-in-law. The Dausa family's troubles only underline what many Dalit victims of atrocities face. P9

Extending moratorium will impact borrowers' credit behaviour: RBI

'Lift stay on NPA classification'

RBI sought immediate lifting of the SC's stay on NPA classification of accounts as it undermines its regulatory mandate. The SC on Sept 4 ordered a stay on the classification of NPAs till further orders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

OPPOSING any further extension of loan moratorium, the RBI told the Supreme Court such a move will adversely impact the credit behaviour of borrowers. In a fresh affidavit filed in the apex court, RBI said a moratorium for six months was permitted to offer a temporary reprieve to borrowers hit by the pandemic. It said a longer moratorium may vitiate the overall credit discipline and small borrowers with limited access to formal lending channels will end up bearing the brunt.

RBI filed the affidavit in response to the SC's order asking it and the Centre to place on record the K V Kamath panel recommendations on debt restructuring. P9

China's 60K troops at LAC, says Pompeo

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

US National Security Adviser Robert O'Brien has accused China of trying to take control of the LAC by force, even as Secretary of State Mike Pompeo said Beijing has amassed more than 60,000 troops on India's northern border.

O'Brien said the time has come to realise that talks will not help change China's aggressive stance. "There's nothing to be gained from looking the other way or turning the other cheek. We've been doing that for far too long," he said.

Pompeo, after a meeting with the foreign ministers of the other three Quad countries in Tokyo, lashed out at Beijing for its "bad behaviour". "The Indians are seeing 60,000 Chinese soldiers on their northern border," he said during an interview upon his return from Tokyo. He added that India will "absolutely need" US help to fight China, which poses great danger to regional stability.

"I was with my foreign minister counterparts from India, Australia and Japan a format that we call the 'Quad', four big democracies, four powerful economies, four nations, each of whom has real risk associated with the threats imposed, attempting to be imposed by the Communist Party," Pompeo said. Pandemic jitters turn shoppers into early birds

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE Covid-19 pandemic has made shoppers jittery this festive season. It has also taught them how less and early make the festival safe and happy. Apart from buying online, people have now started shopping early for Dasara and Diwali, instead of rushing to the outlets at the last minute. Also, instead of waiting for weekend and discount offers, they are preferring to be the early birds.

"Covid cases are rising and we cannot take chances. We have decided to buy just one dress and use it for two occasions as no gatherings are being organised. Normally, we would shop during Navarathri when fresh collections are displayed. But this year, we have already shopped as going to crowded places may affect our health," said Tejaswini L, a software professional. P7

HE LEAVES HIS FOOTE-PRINTS ON SOUTH STONE AGE

Regarded as the Father of India's pre-history, he discovered over 450 archaeological sites across South India

SUBHASH CHANDRA N S @Ballari

A British Civil Engineer William Fraser, who was on an assignment in 1870 on the outskirts of Ballari, near Kapgal, came across some strange rock drawings on a hillock. He informed his colleague, a geologist Robert Bruce Foote. Foote did not take much time to realize that it was a prehistoric site -- a site which could rewrite the history of Ballari. That site was Sanganakallu, a Neolithic site, which throws light on the evidence of early man in Ballari -- a major tourist attraction today. This was just the beginning of a Stone Age study not just in Karnataka, but in the entire Madras Presidency.

Regarded as the Father of India's Pre-history, Foote was in India to make a geological study of Ballari. Foote surveyed Sangankallu hill-top and the surrounding area that had evidence of stone art and heaps of stone-age implements. He discovered scattered waste products of stone-axe-making activity, surface of spread of stone beads and three ash mounds at the base of the large hill (Hiregudda).

He was convinced that this was a large axe-making site. Later on, he also came across Daroji neolithic site and the Kudatini and Toranagallu ash mound, which is now under the protection of KPCL (considering its archeological value), on Ballari-Hospet highway near Kudatini.

"He discovered more than 450 archaeological sites across south India, including northern Karnataka, the whole of Madras Presidency. Of these, 42 were Palaeolithic sites, 252 neolithic and the rest Iron Age sites," informs Professor Ravi Korisettar, a senior archaeologist and former Professor, Karnataka University, Dharwad.

As part of his findings, Foote collected thousands of stone implements and other rare specimens from the sites across South India. "The major part of his collection is housed in the Madras Government Museum. The two volumes, published by the Government of Madras, contain Foote's understanding of India's prehistory. Foote published 21 comprehensive geological reports of several parts of the erstwhile Madras Presidency which are referred to as 'Memoirs of the Geological Survey'," says Prof Korisettar.

Foote lived in Ballari in 1870 for some time, but he left the town after his daughter -- his fourth child, Violet Anne was born. His wife Elizabeth Ann Percival died on June 30, 1870 in Madras. Foote returned to Ballari after 1880 to continue his geological studies. Though there were several theories regarding the places he lived when he was in Ballari, the house he lived in was traced recently by Prof Korisettar.

"Initially, I had thought the name Brucepet in Ballari was named after him, but it was named after a judge. After checking a few British bungalows in Mincherion the outskirts of Ballari, I tried to find out from his Will in London during my visit in 1996 but in vain," he says. But Prof Korisettar's colleague Shanthi Pappu managed to help him. "She was able to trace the house through Foote's descendents adjacent to Daroji lake near Old Daroji village between Kudatini and Kamalapur," he says.

As a tribute to Foote, the prehistoric museum in Ballari is named after him. This museum not only throws light on the discoveries made by Foote, but also the later findings inspired by him. It also aims at educating young minds about human evolution.

HOUSE TOURISM

The house of Robert Bruce Foote, discovered by the archaeologists, will now be developed into a tourist place. It adjoins a 150-year-old lake which has never dried up so far. It might be a cluster comprising the Daroji Bear Sanctuary, Hampi and Sanganakkal. The house will be developed as a museum and the lake itself will be a weekend getaway for people of Ballari.

House of Robert Bruce Foote

It is indeed a great thing that we are able to find the house of Robert Bruce Foote. His contribution to the Prehistoric study is commendable. We want more people to visit the museum and celebrate Ballary's glorious past

Jagadish Bhavikatti hard at work carving an art piece

Below: Some of his creations made out of coconut, bamboo and softwood

Dharwad artist's story... in a nutshell!

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH @Hubballi

EVERY time he sees a coconut, his eyes shine! His advice to all: Don't throw those coconut shells, you can turn them into beautiful objects of art. A Dharwad man has been fashioning intricate pieces of sculpture on the dry coconut shell.

Carving over the husk of a coconut and rendering it an artistic design is no easy task, but Jagadish Bhavikatti (45) has not only achieved that, but has perfectly shaped the raw material into models of animals, leaders, Gods, and more. Having completed thousands of art pieces, his collection today includes folk art, Mahatma Gandhi's three monkeys, Charkha, the Buddha, Rabindranath Tagore, Siddaganga Mutt seer Shivakumara Swamiji, Sir M Visvesvaraya, Lord Shiva, Ganesha, Hanuman, and tea cups, among others.

Bhavikatti, who resides in Kelageri, picked up his talent at home. His parents nurtured his skills from a young age, which he continued to develop thereafter.

"My mother Girijamma and father Virupaksha Gouda come from a rural background. They used to create art from coconuts, waste pieces of wood, paddy grass and other eco-friendly materials that were easily available around the village. Learning from them, I have applied my own mind to sculpt on dry coconuts," he says.

Bhavikatti's family members, including his children and younger brothers, also join him in celebrating the art. His brothers help him procure raw materials such as large dry coconuts from nearby farms, the lightweight trunk of calotropis, bamboo, and paddy grass, all of which are transformed into splendid works of art by Bhavikatti.

Younger brother Veeranagowda says they are not interested in making such types of art pieces that are replaced by plastic idols and decorative items. When his brother exhibited his skill at some exhibitions and received appreciation, he also began to support him.

Bhavikatti is employed as a garden supervisor at Dharwad's SDM Engineering College. After his shift, when he returns home, all his attention turns to his art. About three hours later, he has completed at least two works.

His art has brought Bhavikatti many accolades. He has exhibited his talent at more than 40 exhibitions across the state, including the Krishi Mela and Horticulture Mela, and has been felicitated by several organisations and institutions. Many folk enthusiasts also documented his work in a small book, following which the National Virtual University for Peace and Education of Bengaluru also conferred him with an honorary doctorate in February this year.

As many as 500 of Bhavikatti's art pieces made from dry coconuts have been placed in the permanent exhibition centre of the Horticulture Research and Extension Station, Arsikere, Hassan district.

Today, people from far and near are impressed with his artistic brilliance and want to adorn their space with a work of coconut art or two. For instance, Basavaraj Patil from Dharwad has planned on gifting a unique piece to his friend at his wedding.

Blindness to cost India ₹88Kcr in 2020: Report

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE economic burden from vision impairment in India for 2020 amounts to Rs 88,900 crore, and 35% of causes of blindness are preventable and early detection can greatly reduce the economic impact, according to the Status of Child Eye Health in India report published by NGO Orbis which works to prevent and treat vision impairment.

The report, released on World Sight Day, also found that between 2019-20, the loss to gross national income due to blindness in adults would be Rs 9,06,200 crore and Rs 3,31,100 crore for children, for 10 and 40 lost working years, respectively. This includes the loss of economically productive years for both the visually impaired and their care-givers.Many of the conditions that affect children are detectable and treatable, said Dr Rishi Raj Borah, country director at Orbis India. "The report brings to light 8-10 conditions in children, which, if diagnosed early, can prevent childhood blindness. These include childhood cataract and glaucoma," he said.

Other factors that affect treatment include availability of doctors. "Urban areas have one ophthalmologist for 10,000 people but in rural areas it is one for every 2,50,000. Some children have eye problems at birth, while others develop them by the age of 10. Half of them are detectable and treatable," Dr Borah said.

The shortage of paediatric ophthamologists and paediatric optometrists in India apart, the lack of attention to ophthalmological conditions in primary healthcare also has serious implications for early diagnosis. "General physicians and nurses at PHCs may not have the knowledge or time to examine a child's eyes. There is a lack of specialists and sufficient staff at PHCs, and in villages. Anganwadi and ASHA workers also aren't trained to detect eye problems," said Dr Parikshit Gogate, paediatric ophthalmologist.

The lack of awareness that blindness can be detected early and even treated combined with stigma associated with it also acts as a preventive factor in seeking help. "There is a mindset among parents that younger children do not need spectacles and that only older people suffer from blindness," Dr. Gogate added.

Another reason is the lack of public health infrastructure such as specialised equipment, screening mechanism and charts to detect and treat cases. There is also a lack of coordination between gynaecologists, paediatricians and ophthalmologists, the report said.

SURGE AND SCARE

ARE WE GETTING THE BETTER OF COVID-19?

TEAM ENS @Bengaluru

AFTER a slow start to Covid-19 in Karnataka in March, which raised hopes of largely remaining unaffected in the months to come, the pandemic spread like wildfire.

To understand the speed of the disease spread, the first Covid case was reported on March 8. It took 65 days to reach the 1,000-mark (May 12), 10 days from 1,000 to 2,000 (May 22), eight days from 2,000 to 3,000 (May 30), and three days from 3,000 to 4,000 (on June 2). Since then, until October 9, 6,90,269 cases have been reported, with the highest single-day addition being 10,947 on October 7. But among the active cases, only 873 are in ICUs.

While the surge and the tally may raise concerns, the state Covid war room data points to a rising recovery rate and falling mortality and positivity rates, thanks to a big majority being asymptomatic.

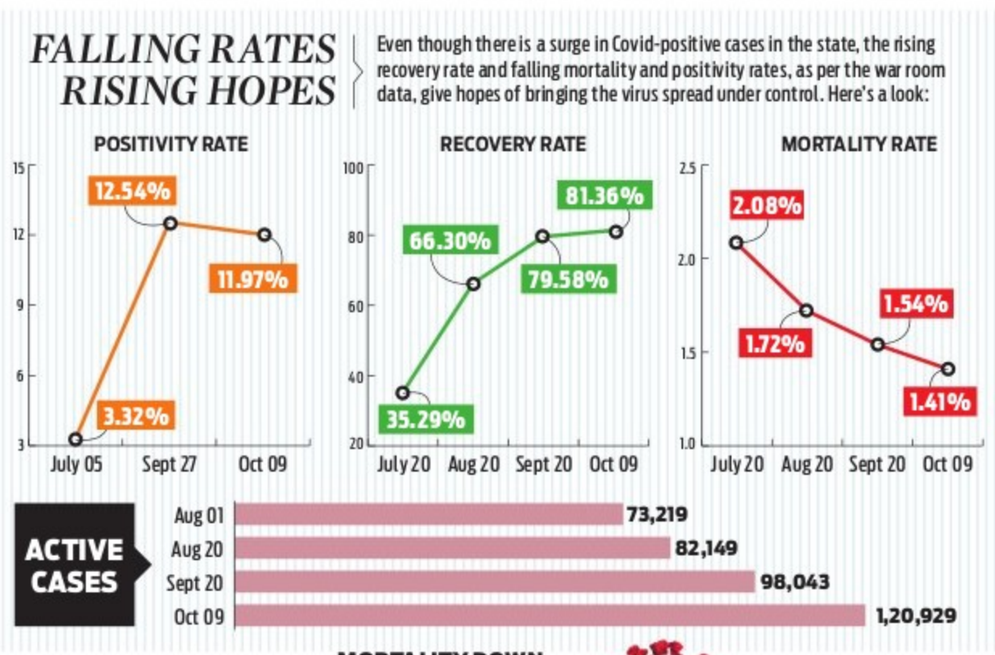
The state has the second highest number of active cases (1,20,929) after Maharashtra, which is the highest so far.

Experts point out that a high number of active cases is not bad as long as the long-term goal of reducing mortality rate is met. Dr C N Manjunath, Director, Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research, and in charge of Covid testing, says active cases will increase as the positivity rate goes up, because of detection of more Covid patients, which is due to an increased number of tests – 57,39,530, so far.

"The positivity rate has been constant, between 12 and 13 per cent (11.97 per cent on October 9). Active cases will grow parallel to new cases. This helps in early isolation and will serve our long-term goal of reducing mortality," he says.

FALLING RATES RISING HOPES

Even though there is a surge in Covid-positive cases in the state, the rising recovery rate and falling mortality and positivity rates, as per the war room data, give hopes of bringing the virus spread under control. Here's a look:



BIG PICTURE

MORTALITY DOWN

But the state government's aim, as mentioned by CM B S Yediyurappa, is to bring the mortality rate below 1 per cent. It stands at 1.41 per cent as on October 9 – a steady decline from 2.08 per cent on July 20.

The reason? The number of infected elders has reduced. "This is a good sign as infected elders face a greater risk of severity or death," explains an intensivist from Victoria Hospital.

More tests due to more awareness, early diagnosis and treatment have helped reduce complications and mortality, says Dr Satish KS, member of the Covid death audit committee.

"In March and April, when mortality rate was high, we analysed and found delayed diagnoses to be the cause. Now with awareness, people are getting tested earlier," he says.

Kalaburagi has shown the way. Its Deputy Commissioner V V Jyothsna says mortality rate is down to 0.8 percent in the district due to timely treatment.

IMPROVING RECOVERY RATE

On further improving the recovery rate, Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar says the challenge is to get all primary and secondary contacts tested immediately. "If patients list their contacts and they voluntarily appear for testing, a lot of effort and government machinery can be saved and the spread can be arrested more efficiently. It also helps as we have more asymptomatic cases," he said.

Dr Giridhar R Babu, Head, Lifecourse Epidemiology at the Public Health Foundation of India, says, "Avoiding the three Cs -- crowds, closed spaces and close contact settings – and also following the three W's -- wearing masks, washing hands and watching distance -- are important to avoid infection. The government should ensure that district-level review is done on time. We need to ensure mortality rate reduces in districts, and for that a district-level task force is a must," he says.

RISE IN NUMBERS

There has been a steady rise in cases in Bengaluru, Uttara Kannada, Belagavi, Dharwad and Vijayapura, while it has been under control in Gadag, Haveri and Bagalkot in recent weeks.

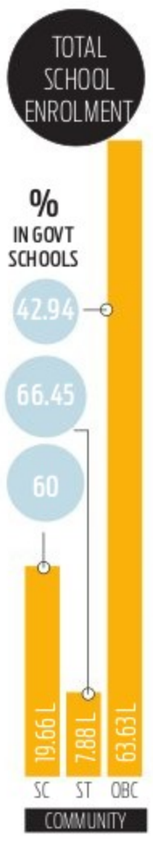
Lobby against Vidyagama has won, says top official

The government finds itself on the backfoot after children and teachers test positive; it will also affect decision on reopening of schools

If the number of cases in children goes up, then the solution is to ensure children practise hand washing and safe distance measures. The solution is not to shut down all systems that offer education to children

Dr Sylvia Karpagam, Public health researcher



PEARL MARIA DSOUZA AND PREEJA PRASAD @Bengaluru

THE state government's Vidyagama programme, which enabled continued schooling to government schoolchildren by teachers visiting their vicinities, came to an abrupt end on Saturday, albeit temporarily.

The programme drew over 90,000 from private schools to government ones, but eventually had to come to a close due to heavy lobbying by teachers and private schools at the cost of thousands of students, said a top official from the education department on condition of anonymity.

"With some checks in place, the programme would have been a complete success. However, with the Teachers constituency elections round the corner, the government and the private teachers' lobby has managed to do away with the programme," said the official.

Education expert Dr Niranjanaradhya V P said that stopping Vidyagama could prove detrimental to children from the economically lower sections whose families have been affected by the pandemic. Government schools provide education and also act as a nurturing centre, providing milk, mid-day meals, health checks etc, he said.

"This is not a good sign. The minimum support for these children has been taken away. Children form about 37% of the state's population and those affected by Covid-19 are less than 1%. I urge the Chief Minister and the Education Minister to restart the programme," he said.

"The percentage of SC, ST, OBC students in government schools is huge, and the state's decision is less about the marginalised students being exposed to the virus and more about the idea of pushing them back to caste-based occupations (by denying them education)," said Cynthia Stephen, a social policy researcher.

School association welcomes suspension of programme

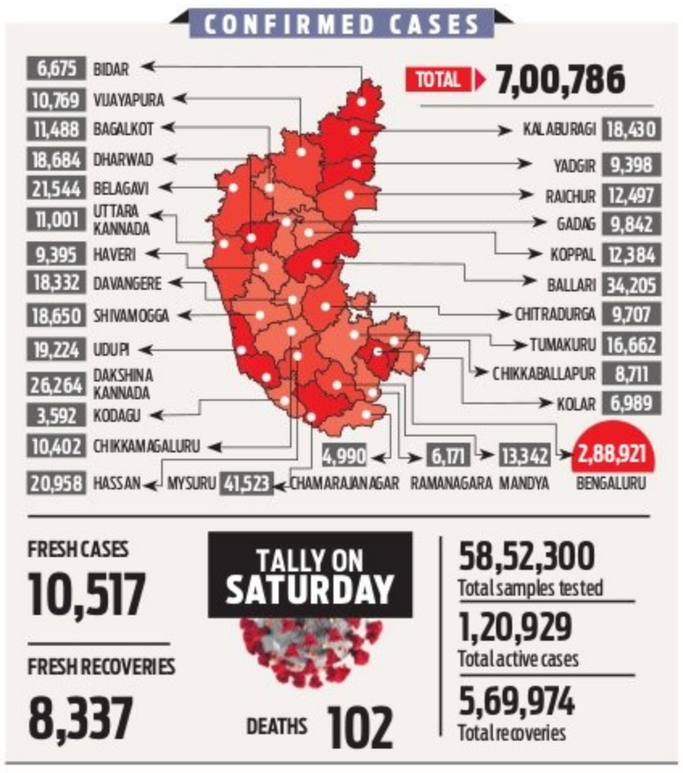
MINISTER Suresh Kumar was satisfied with the way the classes were being conducted.

Department of Public Instruction sources said 193 teachers, lecturers and officers of the department have died of Covid. Also, 20,320 students below the age of 10 and 48,301 students in the 10-20 age group have tested positive. Sixty-one children, a majority of them from government schools, have also died, the sources said.

D Shashi Kumar of Karnataka Associated Managements of English Medium Schools, said, "It is a good move as it will save the lives of hundreds of teachers and students. The programme guidelines were specific that not more than 4-5 should be allowed in a group which was clearly violated by allowing larger number of students to attend these sessions without masks, hand sanitising and temperature checks. The government should have followed general Covid guidelines rather than trying to shift students from private to government schools. This is negligence on the part of the government."

Anbu Kumar, Commissioner, Department of Public Instruction, told TNIE, "As of now, the scheme has been suspended. We will discuss what is next for these children." Education expert Niranjanaradhya, who is on the expert committee for reopening of schools, said, "The discussion on reopening schools will be taken next week as this issue has propped up."



Parents sit on fence, teachers support move

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Vidyagama scheme, which brought much apprehension since its implementation two months ago for government schools, has received mixed responses from both parents and teachers. Though several are not against the scheme itself, they accuse the government of not following the standard Covid-19 guidelines (wearing masks, using sanitiser and thermal scanners) and risking the health of lakhs of children.

Darshini Gowramma, mother of a Grade 5 student, says she is against the cancellation of classes. "The children were sitting at home and not doing anything. The classes made them more active and they were able to learn in a better manner."

Vijaya, a domestic worker, had both her children attending classes near Indiranagar. "I had to send them since I did not have a smartphone. But it is risky since I live with my mother, who is 74 years old. Some say children are not affected badly, but how can we risk getting them infected?"

Teachers' associations welcomed the move. While one remarked that the move is welcome as Dasara holidays had been cancelled because of Vidyagama, another cited an increase in the number of cases as the reason. Both, however, were glad that the government had conceded to their requests.

"What should be cancelled is the word 'temporary' from the government's decision – Vidyagama should be done away with, and teachers should not be asked to visit schools either. Pedagogy has its own method and cannot be done by streetsides, where students are constantly distracted. The government ought to focus on public health first. We have also asked the government for a zero academic year," Basavaraj Guriker, president of Karnataka State Primary School Teachers' Association, told TNSE.

Karnataka State High School Teachers' Association president Manjunath H K said that with the increase in cases, using public spaces was unsafe for students. "Of over 80,000 high school teachers, approximately 2,300 teachers contracted the virus. One cannot definitely say the spread was due to the Vidyagama programme, but chances of getting it there are higher as teachers travel every day for their duty," he said.

The programme had also cancelled Dasara holidays, said Primary Teachers' Association president Chandrashekar Nugli, welcoming the decision.

Newly-appointed national general secretary of the BJP C T Ravi expressed confidence that the party candidates will win both Sira and RR Nagar bypolls. "Party workers are upbeat for the elections in both the constituencies. So, definitely our candidates will win," he said

The battle lines are drawn for the November 3 bypolls to two assembly segments in Karnataka. Though the bypoll results will not have any impact on the government, all three parties are getting ready for a pitched battle to consolidate their position and send across a message. Ramu Patil spoke to BJP state unit president Nalin Kumar Kateel, KPCC president DK Shivakumar and and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy on the importance of the bypoll to their parties

Kateel: BJP will win both Sira, RR Nagar

■ How important are these bypolls for BJP, as the outcome will not impact the government?
As a political party, all elections are important for us. Since our party is in power, we have to win all the seats and will make all efforts to win both assembly seats.

■ What are the issues on which the BJP will seek votes? The Opposition is terming amendments to Land Reforms and AMPC Act as anti-farmer, and making it an issue...
Amendments to the APMC and other acts are in the best interest of farmers. Farmers are with the BJP. We will go to people with the development mantra, and talk about development works taken up by the government and also work to be taken up. We appeal to people to take note of development taken up by the Modi government at the Centre, and BSY government in the state.

Nalin Kumar Kateel

■ Will it be a a mini-referendum on the policy initiatives taken by the governments in the past few months, especially farm bills and amendments to Land Reforms and APMC Act ?
No, it is not. The Congress is trying to politicise the policy initiatives that will help farmers, and this will boomerang on them in these elections. People have welcomed the changes (in APMC and Land Reforms) and that is more important than what the Congress did in the Lok Sabha or Rajya Sabha.

■ Why so much focus on Sira? BJP had not done well in the constituency earlier...
It is a by-election, we have to win it, and that is the reason we are making all efforts to retain our hold on the constituency.

■ Congress says delay in announcing ticket shows confusion within BJP. How do you respond?
There is no confusion in the BJP. We have a system in the party and are working according to it. We have already started preparations and work is going on in the constituencies. They (Congress) may have announced candidates earlier, but are not doing any work on the ground.

■ Why does speculation over leadership change crop up frequently?
There is no question of leadership change in the state. No such issue was discussed in the party.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

Need to assert our presence, boost morale of workers: HDK

■ How important are these bypolls to the JDS?
The results will not impact the government, but it is important for us to send a message to the other parties that the JDS is very much relevant in state politics and will continue to fight for the people. We also need to send a message to our party workers to boost their morale. We have to win Sira as the constituency was represented by our party MLA.

■ What are the issues JDS will take up in the elections?
People are aware of how the BJP government has responded to floods, problems faced by farmers, Covid and other important issues in the past year. There are issues related to workers and unemployment. People have to send out a message in this election.

HD Kumaraswamy

■ BJP leaders, including the Chief Minister, seem to have adopted a soft approach towards the JDS. Why this change? Will you reciprocate it?
We will only discuss issues and not speak about individuals. The BJP is in power in the state and at the Centre, we will talk about its governments' policies, about previous Congress governments' performance and how Congress is performing as a recognised opposition party.

■ Do you think the split in Vokkaliga votes will help BJP?
I don't think that will happen. The Congress is trying to get the community votes. During elections, Congress always says that JDS and BJP have an internal understanding. They have no other issues to talk about. In RR Nagar, Congress leaders are saying that a division in Vokkaliga votes is stopping the candidate from the community from becoming MLA. The same Congress leaders had stopped a Vokkaliga from becoming MLA in the constituency earlier. Looks like they are suddenly enlightened about Vokkaligas.

■ Do you think DK Shivakumar's appointment as KPCC president will dent the JDS's Vokkaliga base?
They are trying to create a false impression is some circles, with an intention to create confusion among people. People know our contribution to the community and the Congress's contribution. People will decide. It is just imagination that our strong support base will shift to another party just because someone is made president of that party.

DKS: People unhappy, they have to show it

■ For the first time, Congress is facing elections under your leadership as KPCC chief. How important are these bypolls?
It is not only my leadership; I believe in collective leadership. All of us have to work together and send the message that what this government is doing is not correct.

■ What are the issues the Congress will take up in the elections?
The image of the state has taken a severe beating. The government has failed on all fronts -- handling the Covid situation, flood relief and economy. There is a huge job loss and unemployment problem, the economy has collapsed, everyone is in fear, no one is happy, and people have got no help. Life is in danger, and so is business. Children are not safe and are worried about their future, and parents are worried about their children's future. People have to think about all these issues.

DK Shivakumar

■ These election results will not make any difference in terms of numbers for the government or Opposition...
It is not a question of numbers, people have to show that they are not happy. If they are happy, it's okay, if not they have to show it.

■ In RR Nagar, the party fielded a candidate without any political experience against the BJP and JDS. Do you think the strategy will work?
Yes, it will definitely work. We have to give opportunities to the younger generation and new people. Youth is the future of this country, and we have to give them an opportunity.

■ BJP is going all guns blazing in Sira by deploying a big team, including two deputy chief ministers. What are the prospects of the Congress in a three-cornered fight?
I am fully confident of winning both Sira and RR Nagar. How many days will they take to announce the party candidates? The delay in announcing candidates shows they are in troubled waters. We will win both seats.

■ Will the CBI raids on your properties be an issue in these elections?
I don't want to take up the CBI raids issue in the elections, and I will not. Let the people decide. I know I haven't done anything wrong and will face it. I will talk about problems faced by the people.

> How many days will they take to announce the party candidates? The delay in announcing candidates shows they are in troubled waters. We will win both seats

Cong criticises farm bills, sets tone for campaign

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mandya

A farmers rally by the Congress against the farm bills on Saturday set the tone for the bypolls with many leaders attacking the BJP leadership at the Centre and the State.

The Congress leaders assured the gathering that they would repeal the bills if voted to power. Knowing that the two constituencies — Rajarajeshwari Nagar and Sira — going to the polls and Mandya region have a significant Vokkaliga population which is traditionally dependent on agriculture, the Congress alleged that the Centre wanted to destroy the agriculture sector to help their capitalist friends.

Both the Karnataka government and the Centre wanted to destroy the agro economy of this country and bring the farmers to streets, charged AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala. "The Congress has stopped the NDA government's designs to weaken farmers' rights on compensation for land- losers introduced by the previous UPA government," he said.

He feared that the small and marginal farmers would be the worst affected if APMCs were closed as they would have no choice but to sell their produce to the corporates. The minimum support price will come to an end once the APMCs are closed, he alleged.

Former CM and Opposition Leader Siddaramaiah said, "Congress will definitely come back to power both at the Centre and states and will repeal the farm bills, restore the Land Reforms Act and make necessary amendments to the APMC Act."

Congress leaders including, AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala, KPCC President DK Shivakumar, and Opposition leader Siddaramiah, during 'Raitha Dhwani' in Mandya on Saturday

Stating that the states are not subordinate to the Centre, he accused Prime Minister Modi of bulldozing his agenda in the guise of cooperative federalism.

He accused the BJP government in the state of being involved in multi-crore corruption to bring amendment to the Land Reforms Act and benefit housing societies. He said the government which may again table the AMPC Act and the Land Reforms bills in the Council to get them passed through voice vote should know that it cannot win the voice of the public.

KPCC president D K Shivakumar said that the Congress has roped in farmers organisations and others to restore the self-respect of the farming community that has fed the country, protected land and contributed to the economy.

Farmer leader Vasu, former ministers S R Patil, Krishne Byregowda and Chaluvarayaswamy hit out at the BJP and its policies.

JDS supporting 'anti-farmer' BJP govt, says Siddaramaiah

ENS @Mandya

OPPOSITION leader Siddaramaiah continued his attack on JDS on Saturday by accusing the party of supporting the ruling BJP in the state.

He added that the Congress had sought support of JDS to move the no confidence motion against the B S Yediyurappa led-government that has pushed anti-farmer policies and indulged in a multi-crore scam in the purchase of medical equipments. "However, after a meeting, JDS decided not to support Congress. What does this mean?" he asked.

He accused that the previous government is responsible for the closure of Mandya sugar factory and the privatisation of Pandavapura sugar factory. "Unfortunately, these are the same people who claim to be sons of the soil," he added. The former CM said he wondered why the JDS is supporting the BJP government which is harming the farming community.

IN SIRA, BJP AND CONGRESS BATTLE-READY, JDS LAGS

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Tumakuru

WHILE the ruling BJP has been airdropping a galaxy of leaders into Sira, the Congress is set to launch a war room to go into the bypoll, guns blazing. It is the JDS which is the laggard of the race, with its nominee, Ammajamma, hospitalised due to Covid-19.

The Congress, with former minister T B Jayachandra as the candidate, has appointed 51 observers from the KPCC and a 14-member team to the camp office cum war room, which will be operational in Sira town from October 14. The next day, KPCC president DK Shivakumar and Opposition leader Siddaramaiah are set to storm Sira, and will accompany Jayachandra when he files his nomination papers. In the meantime, Jayachandra is taking his campaign to the rural areas.

BJP's probable nominee Dr C M Rajesh Gowda, who joined the party recently with some local leaders, is campaigning on his own and enrolling workers from other parties, especially the JDS. Since Ammajamma, wife of former minister late B Sathyanarayana, is in hospital, her son B S Sathyaprakash is trying to organise party workers on his own, but is unable to stop them from migrating to the BJP and Congress. Some leaders, including Jayachandra, were skeptical about Ammajamma's candidature as the JDS is likely to change its decision at the last minute. "The JDS is known for waging short-term war and winning it," remarked a JDS leader.

With cinema halls set to open, new hope for cut-out artists

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

THE already struggling industry of hand-painted cutouts and film posters, which the lockdown nearly rendered comatose, has received a lifeline in the form of the central government's order allowing film theatres to reopen.

For hundreds of artists working with art studios across Bengaluru, the headquarters of Sandalwood, the order means they can hold a brush again, months after they were forced to let go of it to take up other jobs to earn a livelihood.

D R Anand Kumar, owner of Anand Arts, located near Nataraja theatre, was looking forward to fulfilling an order of 55 cutouts of actor Darshan for his film Roberrt, but the lockdown at the end of March put paid to that. "We still have the order. Now that theatres have been allowed to open, the film production will go ahead and we can get work," Anand said.

Sathyanarayana, an artist with Murugan Arts, fears normalcy is a long way off. Fans had placed orders for banners for birthdays of their idols in March, but those orders fell through due to the lockdown. "We used to have 50 artists working with us, but now there is nothing. Many of our artists took up odd jobs in construction and painting (buildings), or as sales staff in garment shops," he said.

He still holds out hope, though. "Now that cinemas are allowed to open, and the bypolls have been announced, we hope we will see some light. But it is not easy as fewer movies are released. We will have to wait at least a year to get our regular work back. But in a digital world, we don't know..."

A mega cut out of actor Shivarajkumar in front of a movie theatre in Bengaluru | VINOD KUMAR T

Sathyanarayan's worries are not misplaced. In the heyday of Kannada cinema, with superstars such as Rajkumar, Vishnuvardhan and Ambareesh enthralling audiences across the state, artists were in great demand, said Sham, an artist based in Seshadripuram.

"We would get an order for at least one cutout a day. We had work seven days a week. Back then, one cutout would fetch us ₹6,000. Now we earn ₹50,000 for one banner, and little remains after deducting the cost of paint and artists' fee. We do not have an association or voice to represent us before the government," he said.

New farm policy won't abolish APMCs, says Karandlaje

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Udupi

STATING that the farm reform bills are in favour of farmers, Udupi-Chikkamagaluru MP Shobha Karandlaje, while speaking to reporters in Udupi on Saturday said, contrary to what's being alleged by opposition parties, Agricultural Produce Market Committees (APMC) will not be abolished through the new farm bills.

"Farmers will have the choice to sell their produce for a competitive price in the open market. This will help small farmers who possess less than an acre of farmland, as contract farming has now been provided with the legal protection. Farmers take the extreme step of ending their lives as they get poor price quote for their produce. However, now, these bills will help them," she added.

Udupi-Chikkamagaluru MP Shobha Karandlaje speaks to reporters in Udupi on Saturday

Karandlaje said when farmers had an obligation of supplying their produce to APMCs, they were not getting the right price.

"The Essential Commodities Act 1995 that controlled the supply of certain commodities like cereals, pulses, oil seeds, onion, and potatoes, used to make excessive regulatory interference on farmers' right to sell the produce in the open market. The new Essential Commodities (Amendment) Bill 2020 removed the above commodities from the list of essential commodities. When there are no proper facilities like warehouses, cold storage facilities in the APMCs across the country, it had just turned into an arrangement to nurture the interest of middlemen, not farmers. This also led to many farmers to abandon their farm land and migrate to cities in search of daily wage works. The Modi government has decided to safeguard the interest of farmers and hence the bills were passed," she added.

While speaking on the protests by the farmers' associations against the bills, the MP said they were either misguided or did not read the bills properly.

Fake stamp paper scam busted, four arrested

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BENGALURU police busted a fake stamp paper scam worth ₹2.71 crore on Friday, run by a gang of four whose kingpin is nicknamed Chota Telgi, after the original fake stamp paper racketeer Abdul Karim Telgi.

Police identified the kingpin as Hussain Modi, a resident of Viveknagar, while the others are Harish of Basaveshwarnagar, Shavar alias Seema, and Nazma Fathima of Bapujinagar.

Police said they arrested two people, including Modi, on October 3 when they were at SJ Park, selling fake stamp paper. During questioning, Modi revealed the names of two vendors who bought fake stamp paper. Police raided Modi's house and recovered 443 fake stamp papers of various denominations, ranging between ₹10,000 and ₹25,000, worth ₹2.72 crore. They seized colour printers, computers and fake seals of the sub-registrar office.

Modi, a Class 7 dropout, was a broker and dealt with land disputes and real estate around the city. He would help landlords buy and sell properties, and draw up rental documents, near Kandaya Bhavan and City Civil Court. In 2013, he and his accomplice were arrested for manufacturing and selling fake stamp papers and seals. All the accused were working as brokers and typists in the City Civil Court premises.

Harish a BA graduate, was a typist in a court, while Seema, a B.Com graduate, was a typist in the revenue office. Nazma, a Class 7 school dropout, worked as a broker and helps people draw up legal documents. The fifth accused, who would help the gang by creating fake seals, is still at large.

Difficult to meet deadline for desilting lakes: NGT

Labour shortage, rain delay work; agency for disposal not yet decided

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE National Green Tribunal (NGT) expert committee has expressed its apprehension over the deadline set by the state government to desilt Bengaluru's Bellandur and Varthur lakes, which have hit the headlines for froth flow.

The state government had assured the NGT committee that the lakes would be desilted by December 2020, but the latter is not sure of this. The committee, appointed by the tribunal to ensure the two water bodies are revived, says it will be a difficult exercise.

A committee member told TNIE, "Due to the pandemic, shortage of labourers, and the ongoing monsoon, it will be difficult to finish the desilting by December 2020, as the state government officials commit. The silt is being scraped and dumped on the side of the lakes, which is not what they are supposed to do. Scientific disposal of the silt and its management is also a part of the exercise. All the silt mounted on the banks is soiled and mucky. It cannot be transported."

The member added that engineers from Bangalore Development Authority said they had cleared silt from the 200-acre Bellandur Lake, but with rainwater stagnating on the water body, the exercise will only get worse. "We will inspect the lakes now and submit a report to the NGT on the next course of action. Test reports of the silt samples are also awaited, based on which the type of treatment to be given and where it is to be sent, will be decided. Though abandoned quarries have been identified for dumping the silt to level the lands, the agency to transport the silt has not yet been finalised," the committee member added.

They, however, expressed pleasure over the creation of sewage treatment plants. "Though it is slow, it is progressing. There are positive signs on the setting up of STPs in Agaram, Sarakki, Hulimavu and Chikkabegur. But completion of the 150 MLD STP near the lake sites is still delayed," they added.

COFEPOSA invoked against Swapna, Sandeep

Duo will be kept in preventive detention for a year; likely to be moved to T'puram Central Jail

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

THE Customs Commissionerate (Preventive), Kerala, has invoked the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act (COFEPOSA) against prime accused Swapna Suresh and Sandeep Nair in the case related to the smuggling of gold via the diplomatic channel.

The central board for COFEPOSA approved Customs' proposal to invoke the Act on Friday. Following this, the duo will be kept in preventive detention one year. They are likely to be moved to Thiruvananthapuram Central Jail where other COFEPOSA accused are lodged.

Move to impose COFEPOSA comes after the duo received bail in the case filed by the Customs. Similarly, there is a possibility that Swapna may get a statutory bail in the case registered by the Enforcement Directorate.

Furthermore, since Sandeep has given a confession statement to the National Investigation Agency, there is possibility that he may be released if he turns approver.

"The proposal for COFEPOSA was presented before the Central Board and was approved on Friday. We have initiated steps to impose the Act against the duo. The order has been handed over to jail authorities," an official said.

The agency is likely to impose COFEPOSA against other accused persons in the case later.

The interrogation of CM's former principal secretary M Sivasankar by the Customs on Saturday was mostly based on digital evidence, call data record (CDR) and his trips to Gulf countries. After interrogating him for over 11 hours on Friday, the questioning that began from 10am on Saturday continued till late in the night.

If the interrogation on Friday was mainly over duty evasion behind the import of 17 tonnes of dates through diplomatic channel, on Saturday the entire focus of interrogation was on the gold smuggling case.

When Customs examined the Swapna's CDR, it was found that there were calls to and from an unknown number when they went absconding after the gold consignment was seized on July 5.

Krishna river

'TS trying to create new problem over water-sharing'

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @Belagavi

KARNATAKA has hit out at Telangana over the latter's demand for the constitution of a fresh tribunal to share Krishna river water. Water Resources Minister Ramesh Jarkiholi said on Saturday the Krishna Water Dispute Tribunal had already given its final award granting Karnataka, Maharashtra and the earlier united Andhra Pradesh their share of water and said he was committed to safeguarding the interests of Karnataka.

At this point, Telangana's plea for setting up a new water disputes tribunal is illogical, he said and accused it of trying to create a new controversy.

The Centre had constituted the Tribunal for adjudicating the dispute between Maharashtra, Karnataka and erstwhile Andhra Pradesh and the tribunal in 2013 recommended allocation of water to these states. However, on account of a stay by the Supreme Court in 2011, the award could not be published in the official gazette.

In an official statement, Jarkiholi said he had brought the issue to the notice of Union Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat on how Telangana had been creating problems by demanding a tribunal again.

As Telangana was a part of the erstwhile Andhra Pradesh, both those states must work out the issue of water-sharing, Jarkiholi said. "The petitions filed in the Supreme Court for the formation of a fresh tribunal have been suspended already," he added.

Commenting on the Mahadayi project, Jarkiholi called the contempt petition filed by Goa government in Supreme court as illogical.

The BJP government which had promised to implement the Mahadayi project would initiate all required measures to ensure its implementation, he asserted.

Jarkiholi said he had written to the Jal Shakti Minister to help ensure that Karnataka government got its share of water from Krishna as well as Mahadayi river at the earliest.

Centre okays flying school in Belagavi

SUNIL PATIL @Belagavi

FOLLOWING a growing demand for pilots in the country, the Airports Authority of India (AAI) will set up flying schools in six locations, including Belagavi and Kalaburagi airports in Karnataka. AAI tweeted that the Centre has approved the same.

"We will soon come up with requests for proposals for these six airports. AAI will offer a host of concessions," the AAI chairman said

Former Union Civil Aviation Minister Jayant Sinha had visited Belagavi Airport in 2018 to review the progress at the airport. The late Union Minister Suresh Angadi, who was an MP then, had appealed to the minister to start cargo and international flight services from Belagavi. He had also appealed to the minister to start a flying school in Belagavi. Sinha said that he would consider the demand.

Krishna Giriyannavar, an infrastructure expert, said, "Due to the efforts of Suresh Angadi, Belagavi airport has been selected for a flying school. This will create employment opportunities in the aviation sector."

Belagavi airport director Rajesh Kumar Maurya said, "We are proud to be chosen to start a flying school at our airport. We expect to get official details of the proposed flying school this week from the head office. AAI has realised the potential of Belagavi airport," he said.

$6 trillion lost in cyber crime in first nine months of this year, say experts

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THERE has been an estimated loss of $6 trillion in cyber crime in the first nine months of this year. The fact that cyber attacks are happening at a regular frequency tell us that something is wrong somewhere, said Lt General Rajesh Pant (Retd), national cybersecurity coordinator, Government of India.

He was speaking on 'Solarium 2020, US Cyber Security in a Changing World Order' on Friday, in a virtual forum organised by the Synergia Foundation, a Bengaluru-based strategic think tank. Pant along with two other panelists – Robert Morgues, senior director, US Cyber Space Solarium Commission Task Force 2 and Laura Bate, senior director, US Cyber Space Solarium Commission Task Force 3, said that international norms, robust bilateral relations and public-private partnership (PPP) are crucial to the stability of cyberspace.

Morgues spoke on the role of international resilience, PPP and uniform international norms for protecting digital privacy and creating a safe digital environment. Ruling out monopoly or a single nation leading the pack in the global Internet regime, he said there would be multiple leaders with nation states determining cyber protocols with private players.

Pant concurred with Morgues and stressed upon the importance of international cooperation between nations. "We need an international body like the United Nations for cyber security and international court of justice for cybercrimes. Criminals are taking advantage of the politics and infighting among countries on uniform cyber laws and lack of cyber diplomacy," said Pant.

India follows the rule of Common But Differentiated Responsibilities (CBDR) where everyone is responsible for cyber security, he added.

Bates stressed upon the importance of international collaboration, free flow of information sharing between democracies like the US and India and increased use of direct bilateral communication to promote a healthy cyber ecosystem.

Potters making Diwali lamps see an early demand

VIBHA K, a homemaker, said, "The Lockdown and Unlock have taught us that we can be happy with little. We have prepared a list of what we usually purchased every year and from that, we have cut down to what we want this year. Only food and religious items have remained, which we will purchase online."

Potters making earthen lamps for Diwali are also seeing an early demand. "Normally, the rush starts during the end of Dasara, but we have already started selling diyas. Purchases are less, but they are happening. This will help in lighting up our festival also," said Kamal, a potter from the Majestic area.

Ajay Motwani, vice-president, Commercial Street Shopkeepers' Association, said sales are gradually picking up since September. "By October-end, we hope that at least 60 per cent of sales will take place. Unlike earlier, when customers rushed during weekends, it is now all through the week and this is a positive sign that the market is reviving."

However, the wholesale markets are yet to see an uptick. Retailers accepted that they are first clearing the stocks to make heldover payments to wholesalers before taking fresh stocks. Sajjan Raj Mehta of the Wholesale Garments Merchants' Association said that the business is gradually picking up, but markets are still not fully operational as finances and health continues to be a concern.

BIG INCREASE IN JANAUSHADHI CENTRE SALES, SAYS DVS

Bengaluru: Union Minister D V Sadananda Gowda on Saturday said that the Pradhan Mantri Bharatiya Janaushadhi Pariyojana (PMBJP), that provides medicines at affordable prices, has helped people in Karnataka save around Rs 500 crore a year. Speaking after reviewing the PMBJP initiative in the state, the minister said that as compared to last year, there has been a 73% increase in sales at the 705 janaushadhi centres in the state. A Rs 125 crore sales target has been set for Karnataka for the year and in the past six months the centres have made Rs 65 crore. As compared to private medical shops, medicines cost much lesser at these centres. In a year, medicines worth Rs 125 crore are sold at these centres and if the same medicines are purchased by people in private shops, they would have spent around Rs 600 crore to Rs 700 crore, the minister said. The minister also reviewed the functioning of Karnataka Antibiotics and Pharmaceuticals Limited (KAPL) that comes under his ministry. The company has been given a Rs 500 crore sales target for the year and in the first two quarters, it has touched the Rs 275 crore mark.

HC orders CBSE to hold exams for barred students

Bengaluru: The Karnataka High Court has ordered the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) to conduct examinations for students if they were barred for bringing mobile phones to exam halls, on or before December 31 this year. This will help them complete the All India School Certificate (Main) Examination-2020 with the same syllabi and course study, if they were otherwise eligible. The direction came after Suchi Mishra, a Class 12 student, approached the court questioning the punitive memorandum issued by the CBSE dated July 29, 2020, cancelling her main exam in Biology of AISSCE for using "unfair means". Her result was also declared as 'Essential Repeat'. ENS

No probe if anonymous plaints don't have address

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FROM now on, those looking to lodge 'anonymous' complaints against government employees will have to submit their complete address. Chief Secretary Vijay Bhaskar directed the heads of all departments to probe only those complaints that have the complete address of the complainants. The decision was taken as many anonymous complaints are filed over "personal grievances".

In a circular, he said in many cases, complaints filed anonymously are over "personal agenda, jealousy and vested interests" and the complainants do not provide sufficient evidence. Such complaints unnecessarily hinder employees from performing their day-to-day work.

Bhaskar also mentioned that following a memorandum from the Karnataka Government Employees Association, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa directed implementing a mechanism followed by the Centre wherein anonymous complaints that do not have proper mention of the senders' address are not probed. Though the association has welcomed the decision, some some are skeptical. A senior secretariat official told TNSE that there are some genuine complaints by "harassed employees" who may not want to reveal their identity or address.

"This is nothing but stopping such people from filing complaints and safeguarding powerful and corrupt officials," he said.

THE QUEST OF ATMANIRBHAR BJP

HISTORICALLY, every election in Bihar scripts a new equation on the algebra of politics for aficionados. The 2020 edition has not disappointed — the simultaneous equation haunting fertile imagination in the theatre of Bihar is whether a set outside is actually a part of a union.

On the face of it, the BJP is in alliance with the JD (U) and the LJP has left the alliance in the state but continues to be in alliance at the Centre. The reigning theory, despite denials, is that post results the equation will change from BJP+JD (U) to BJP+ LJP, one where the BJP comes to power through a reverse merger with the LJP rendering the Nitish Kumar-led JD(U) outside the equation.

Lending credence to the thesis propagated in the discourse in Bihar is the course of events of the past year — the manner in which two of the BJP's oldest allies, the Shiv Sena and the Shiromani Akali Dal, have parted company with the party and exited the saffron coalition called the National Democratic Alliance. As with economics, the course of politics is influenced by expectations. The Shiv Sena and the SAD, once dominant in their home base, expected continuum in stature and treatment — and, typically, allies tend to deploy numbers or sentiments depending on the context. On the other side of the equation, the BJP is scarcely the dependent entity that it was in the first season of the NDA.

The BJP in 2019 is an organised juggernaut with a footprint that is larger than ever. This December marks 36 years of a factoid the BJP has lived with. In the 1984 Lok Sabha polls, the BJP contested 224 seats and forfeited deposits on 108, winning just two seats. The opposition, frequently, used the 2-seat factoid as a slur and the BJP as its baseline. In 2019, the BJP contested on 436 seats and won 303 of them. More importantly, the party led in over 2,053 Assembly constituencies across states, reflecting the expansion of its allure and market share.

The rise of the party is unquestionably powered by the popularity of Brand Modi. Narendra Modi is verily the party, the leader and the face of the success story — it is no surprise that Sushil Modi has threatened to petition the Election Commission to prevent the LJP from using the face of the PM in its campaign. Under Narendra Modi, the BJP has repositioned itself to lay claim to the pole position as the party of natural governance.

This evolution of the party is spurring, in the upper echelons and ranks, the quest for Atmanirbhar BJP. There is no disputing the legitimacy of the aspiration of Atmanirbhar BJP. Equally, signals matter in politics — the BJP's defeat in 2004 despite Vajpayee's popular acceptance stemmed from mismanagement of alliances. How allies feel where it is dominant can infect domains where it is weak.

The macro question is whether the party has the presence and acceptance that this calls for in a large and diverse democracy such as India. It does well against the Congress, but still struggles when pitted against regional parties as witnessed recently in the 2019 polls for Odisha, Telangana and Andhra Pradesh. The party could not retain states it had a history in. It has found success by riding the Modi wave — and through acquisitions where it has been nimble while the Congress was flat-footed.

On the ground, electoral victories need validation of promise with performance. Governance in many of the states where the party is in power is not demonstrably better than others — even in adapting and adopting the ideas being propelled by the Centre. Despite the leverage of being in power in the Centre, the party is yet to produce a unicorn of the kind Gujarat came to be known under Modi.

As a party, it has much to work with and much to work on. A strong central leadership is necessary but not sufficient. The decimation of the Congress was caused by alienation of grassroots giants and promotion of bonsai leaders. The organisation needs to source talent at the state levels — it needs to find the new Parrikars and Mundes in states such as Tamil Nadu, Telangana, Andhra and Bengal to make the Mission Atmanirbhar happen.

On the political front, the party has consolidated its core constituency with articulation and action. It has expanded its appeal by presenting itself as the pro-poor party and wrenched the plank from the Congress without explicitly declaring itself as socialist. That said, the management of the economy leaves much to be desired and has left many disappointed, even disillusioned — small businesses, young professionals, the aspirational and the middle class.

Context is critical to tactics and strategy. The rising acceptance of the BJP is essentially wrapped in the popularity of Narendra Modi — his larger than life presence. Public perception affords the party a window of opportunity for scripting its expansion with ideas to represent the pluralism of a competitive India. The quest for Atmanirbhar BJP calls for some Atmachintan on the road ahead.

DENY THERE WAS RAPE: PROBLEM SOLVED

POINT OF VIEW

TJS GEORGE

UPPER caste crime against Dalits is a part of popular culture in Uttar Pradesh. That is why the four Thakurs who attacked a 19-year-old woman in Hathras did not stop with raping her. They dragged her around, strangulated her with her dupatta and roughed her up violently enough to break her spinal cord, paralysing her. Then they cut her tongue. The police abused the family when they complained. The mutilated girl died in hospital and the authorities conspired to cremate her body at 2 a.m. without the knowledge of the family. Then the Thakurs and Brahmins joined hands and said the Dalit woman was killed by her own family, that they were blaming upper castes to get money from them.

The Allahabad High Court took suo motu cognizance of the horror, saying it "shocked our conscience". The Agra police had started out by calling it "fake news". A senior police officer cited the forensic report and said there was no rape. This was in the face of what was recorded by Jawaharlal Nehru Medical College and Hospital in Aligarh where the woman was admitted. The record said there was use of force and "complete penetration".

The "no rape" idea apparently was the brainwave of public relations professionals. A PR firm run by Prisica Rodrigues in Mumbai had been engaged by the Uttar Pradesh government to handle the case. That Adityanath needed a PR agency to argue for him told its own tale. The irony was neatly summed up by Sankarshan Thakur, the bright young journalist from Patna. As he put it: "When news of the [Hathras] savagery breaks, district authorities damn it as 'fake news'. But the girl survives the multiple assaults and the slur of official lies. She struggles for life a fortnight, shifted from hospital to hospital, and eventually dies in Delhi. She can no longer be dismissed as 'fake news', she has become a dead body."

It may be that the authorities in state capitals and Delhi have become immune to atrocities by the upper castes and do not care about the sufferings of the under-privileged. There is not even a hint anywhere that our Prime Minister is aware of the extent of the horror. The National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB) has official figures to prove the immensity of what is a national scandal. In 2019, the Bureau says, a rape occurred in India every 16 minutes; a woman got trafficked every four hours; an acid attack against a woman took place every 2.3 days, a dowry death happened every hour and a gangrape-murder every day.

The world takes note of these things. Which is natural because our Prime Minister has been keen on the world appreciating the greatness of India. Remember the great hullabaloo, the Howdi Modi show in Houston? So, influential news disseminators like the BBC provide extensive coverage to Hathras and similar developments. It was not off the mark when it reported that Dalit women "continue to be stalked, abused, molested, raped and murdered with impunity".

> Values that are considered fair and honourable do not come naturally to all people. Uttar Pradesh's hardcore Hindi belt has never been known as fair and honourable. And men like Adityanath are doing nothing to make things better. In fact, they make things worse

The good news, however limited, is that the yearning for social transformation has become a fact of life in India in recent years. Contemporary slogans like "Dalit Lives Matter" have changed the ground situation. But it won't be easy. When a young man named Kabira bought an autorickshaw and started a new career in his home state of Gujarat, he was beaten up. His parents were scavengers while most autorickshaws were run by upper caste men. Kabira left the village, later sold off his autorickshaw and started work as a cleaner in a pharmaceutical factory. Gujarat's dignity was restored.

There is a philosophy here and if only people accept that philosophy, all will be well. It was best articulated by an Uttar Pradesh MLA of the BJP, Surendra Singh. He said: "Incidents of rape will cease if parents instill sanskar and good values in their daughters." Please note, sons can have any sanskar they like. It is only daughters' sanskar that parents should take care of.

Actually, this man's mentality and the ideas he expresses show how deep-rooted is the problem. It boils down to a matter of culture. Values that are considered fair and honourable do not come naturally to all people. Uttar Pradesh's hardcore Hindi belt has never been known as fair and honourable. And men like Adityanath are doing nothing to make things better. In fact, they make things worse. Rejecting a contemporary outlook, the Adityanath kind of sectarian leadership negatively impacts not only Uttar Pradesh but India as a whole. A pity.

POWER & POLITICS

PRABHU CHAWLA

THE family tree has the most gardeners in Indian politics. It's the inheritors who make up the upper caste of populism, enjoying its fruits. Dynasty is a unique caste with a difference — a novel category of reservation in public offices for the progeny of rich and powerful in institutions and organisations. Dynasty demands no legislative legitimacy. Historically, genealogy is the lifeblood of feudalism and monarchy. Business and commerce were dominated by kith and kin until markets replaced monarchies with money.

DNA never passes its sell-by date because it's already been purveyed to the moonstruck masses by the patriarchs and matriarchs of political dynasties. D-tag is a premium brand with maximum marketability. Ivy League institutions are no longer power pandemic prescriptions. The best qualification for getting a powerful job in any sector is the dynastic certificate. Caste brings additional weightage to suitability. Royal dynasty is dead. Long live the new dynasty based on caste, class and community.

Flaunting the name of papa or mama is enough to provide priority access to centres of power and to facilitate trouble-free control of institutions beyond scrutiny. Spheres from politics to sports, entertainment to business, culture to NGOs and even the habitats of gods are owned and managed through bloodline connectivity rather than merit. Business has lost its monopoly as the only arbiter of dynastic succession. Politics and sports have become the easiest targets for familial acquisitions and mergers without making investments. Over 70 per cent of India's sports organisations are run by the sons and daughters of politicians and businessmen. The alchemy of dynastic affiliation is so golden that even the highest intervention in judicial laboratories has failed to dull its sheen.

Last week, 37-year-old Chirag Paswan acquired full control and ownership of the Bihar-based Lok Janshakti Party (LJP) after the untimely death of his father Ram Vilas Paswan. Sons are the only ascendant in the zodiac of regional political outfits floated by a caste satrap or a regional raja. Political succession in Dalit-based LJP was as smooth as in any business entity. Chirag plunged into politics after his unsuccessfully brief stint in Bollywood.

Ironically, his father as a former socialist was one of the strongest critics of dynastic politics. Yet, he ended up promoting his son even more brazenly than others. In Indian politics, caste-based reservation has been converted into yet another preserve of the Progenitor Principle. Chirag's elevation as the new Numero Uno is not an exception. His rise is part of an acceptable tend in most parts of the country. After all, Paswan Junior is one of the 30-odd political families who control over 60 per cent of the elected posts in India.

The national parties are no exception. According to a study, over 20 per cent of their office bearers are sons, daughters, sisters, wives, daughters and sons-in-law as MLAs, MPs and heads of other elected bodies. In fact, top posts in all parties from the Congress and regional parties are dynastic perches. The Gandhis, Karunanidhis, Pawars, Chautalas, Badals, Yadavs, Abdullahs have politics in their genes.

> Business has lost its monopoly as the only arbiter of dynastic succession. Politics and sports have become the easiest targets for familial acquisitions and mergers without making investments. Over 70 per cent of India's sports organisations are run by the sons and daughters of politicians and businessmen

After politics, it is business that sets the tone for the domination of the dynastical model in Indian society. Families have always dominated the Indian business universe. When economic reforms came along in the '90s, India was expected to broad base the ownership of big businesses so that non-family meritocrats can also own a part of flourishing enterprises. The liberal economic policies enabled the middle class to invest in the stocks of companies that consolidated their control after collecting money from the market.

Though India is an around $2.5 trillion economy, over 80 per cent of its wealth is owned by just less than five per cent of business clans, which have chosen dynastic succession as their most profitable management model. While the original promoters worked hard to create a successful business entity, Gen Next took over immediately after returning with foreign degrees from elite universities. The only choice given to shareholders was to elect these offspring as successors. Paradoxically, public listed companies are the most effective vehicles for the perpetuation of dynasties and their affluent sustainability. The public is expected to bear the losses created by the incompetence of dynasts in many cases.

Since dynastic institutions aren't subject to public scrutiny, it uses might and money to keep others out of the competition and entry in the system. The saga of Sushant Singh Rajput, a film star who committed suicide, has been projected as the barbaric misuse of dynastic power in Bollywood. Not that all the film actors have become mega super stars through paternal or maternal patronage. The excessive domination of few clans over the Bollywood cosmos supports the perception that heredity matters. Those who aren't part of the Chromosome Club have to do something plus or extra to get a foothold in the family-controlled entertainment business.

There are many more other unseen areas where dynasty affiliations play important roles. In the top civil services, the offspring of senior officials are able to enter IAS, IPS and IAS, thanks to their parentage. Surely most of them became administrators purely on merit, though many questions about the selection process have been raised due to progenitor presence. There's a joke about Amar Nath Verma, former principal secretary to Prime Minister PV Narasimha Rao. Around twenty of his close relatives, including his daughter, were IAS officers holding crucial posts in the state and central government. There are numerous other examples of the sons and daughters of IPS and IFS officers getting into the service. A similar trend is visible in the selection of officers from the SC/ST categories.

With genes and not merit becoming an essential prerequisite for the control of institutions, India will soon witness a war between dynasties in almost every sector. Like in the past, ancestries with the might and backing of the state will inevitably eliminate the others who lack a godfather. India becoming a democracy and economy being ruled by dynasties looks like a real possibility soon. Perversely, lineage is now the fifth pillar of democracy. This pedigree power play will weaken the foundations of the nation, which was projected to enter the 21st century untainted by the brood. Instead, it is degenerating into a kith and kin affair, which could take the nation far behind even the 11th century.

Democracy needs refinement

This has reference to Indian Democracy and Ambedkar's terrifying prescience (Oct 10) The concluding part of the article invokes Ambedkar's premonition that the future emergence of many political parties with diverse and opposing political creeds may endanger the very existence of our independence is very correct. But projecting the entire Indian ruling classes as undemocratic is not justified. Imposition of internal emergency has nothing to do with the feudal mindset of the ruling classes but for the Machiavellian ambition of the then prime minister. Nevertheless democracy needs refinement and preservation.

Restrain television channels

In conformity with the Delhi High Court's September 17 order, so to say, the I&B Ministry has issued advisory to private satellite TV channels to show restraint in broadcasting to suit under the Cables Television Networks (Regulation) Act, 1995 and the rules framed subsequently.This is the need of the hour.The controversies surrounding TRPs (Television Rating Points) is an example of causing doubts on the legitimacy and reliability of the present system.

Don't distort history

This is with reference to the editorial (History is our legacy can't allow politicians to fritter it away). The writer has rightly analysed that the curriculum of History imparted to the students especially in BJP-ruled states are facing criticism for misrepresenting historical facts to give it a right-wing perspective. Maharana Rana Pratap was defeated by Akbar in Haldighati but the Rajasthan government reversed the facts in order to give the Rana an icon stature. The BJP-ruled states provided inaccurate facts to the students to distort their historical base. Even the contribution of Mahatma Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru to the freedom struggle has been relegated to the background. Moreover, history as a subject has wide-ranging perspective. It should be presented as it was.

Taking calculated risk

Education being an indispensable trait in the life of people, our children facing imbroglio on account of online, virtual, vidyagama systems, etc., in this hour of Covid-19 pandemic crisis needs cautious handling by the state authorities, particularly in the context of divergent views being expressed by political leaders regarding reopening of schools. However, the government will consult experts, political leaders and officials to discuss all the pros and cons as per Karnataka Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa allays fears of parents in this regard (Schools won't open till all views are taken, says CM; TNIE, Oct 10). Further, the Union Home Ministry allowed reopening of schools in a graded manner after October 15, also assumes importance in arriving at a calculated risk.

Some hope for economy

RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das averring that the worst is possibly over for covid-hit economy comes as music to the ears. This is the first official forecast since the pandemic hit the country and is in line with other global institutions and brokerages. Yogi govt's brazen tactics

Not only did the Uttar Pradesh government fail in its task of protecting the life, liberty and dignity of a young Dalit woman, it also initially sought to cover up the incident and is now using the controversy to attack critics and those who are raising their voice to seek justice for the victim. The State should stop looking outside, and look within its own administration. That is where the fault lies.

Paswan's death triggers caste politics in Bihar

JD-U utilising Manjhi's HAM to make up for loss by LJP's exit

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

IN a recent letter to LJP workers, Chirag Paswan has said that Chief Minister Nitish Kumar of JD-U humiliated late Ram Vilas Paswan. "It has already been taken seriously by the SC communities," the letter says. In Bihar, there are 38 Assembly constituencies reserved for SC/ST wherein the LJP did not have much impact. The buzz is that the sympathy factor caused by Paswan's death would work in those constituencies.

"We will not forget the humiliation meted out to our leader," says Chandan Ram, a Dalit youth, adding that a strong wave against JD-U is sweeping across the state, particularly Dalits.

The JD-U has given 22 tickets to women, hoping to get their votes on the basis of the liquor ban. Besides, 50% reservation has been given to the women of SC and ST in panchayat elections. The JD-U is also utilising Dalit leader Jitan Ram Manjhi of HAM to make up for the loss caused by the LJP's exit from the NDA.

"But the LJP holds more influence among the Dalits than the HAM. Manjhi will also not go against the self-respect of Dalits because he remembers how Nitish had removed him from the CM's post," says Raj Kumar Paswan, an LJP leader from Hajipur.

"In several districts such as Khagaria, Samastipur, Jamui, Nawada and Aurangabad, Paswan was a mass leader with support among almost all castes. He had spoken for 10% reservation for the poor among upper castes," said LJP leader Pramod Kumar Singh.

About 16% of Bihar's population comprises of Mahadalits, with Dalits divided into 22 castes. JD-U sources say the party has recast its strategy post-Paswan and has involved maximum number of Dalit leaders to project Nitish government's works for the welfare of Dalits, Mahadalits.

"The JD-U is publicising through mobile vans its promise for a job to a family member of any Dalit killed in crime, reservation to Dalits in local bodies, the Jal Nal Yojna and other works for the Dalits to counter the LJP influence," said a JD-U leader.

'NMC to ensure docs for every district'

The coronavirus pandemic not only brought to the fore the acute shortage of doctors, but also the deplorable conditions under which our healthcare workers operate. Bringing a ray of hope amid the gloom, Dr Devi Prasad Shetty, Chairman and Founder of Narayana Health*, expressed confidence that the National Medical Commission (NMC) and the new regulations will bring in enough doctors to address the alarming situation. He was interacting with* Prabhu Chawla, Editorial Director, The New Indian Express and senior journalist Kaveree Bamzai in TNIE Expressions, a series of live webcasts with people who matter.

Discussing the drastic change the National Medical Commission (NMC) can bring, Shetty said that once medical education is liberated there will be an adequate number of doctors. He said, "At present, 80 per cent of the taluk and district hospitals have a shortage of specialists and the new system will change that. Within two years we will have radiologists and pulmonologists... If the official medical board is giving a degree then the young MBBS doctors will even go to the desert and work for two years. That's the level of desperation."

The pragmatic cardiac surgeon, who has been using technology for remote consultation on surgeries for ages, said the shift in technology that has been induced by the pandemic should be used by the medical fraternity. "It might be very hard to imagine but I would remove pens and papers from the hands of each doctor and nurse and hand them a digital device. People can then access medical care with the click of a button, get consultations. We can become the first country to dissociate healthcare from affluence," he added.

Dr Shetty congratulated the Prime Minister and the NITI Aayog for intervening to set up the NMC which will work as the country's apex regulator of medical education.

"When NMC was formed, it became national news... it was path-breaking reforms our government has brought. Hence, I would like to congratulate PM

At present, 80 per cent of the taluk and district hospitals have a shortage of specialists and the new system will change that. Within two years we will have radiologists and pulmonologists for that, because it isn't easy. We have 80,000 undergraduate seats but only 25,000 post-grad seats," said Dr Shetty.

"The masterstroke of the new plan is to launch the diploma seats because what we really needs are the intermediate doctors between a specialist and a general physician. Any hospital with more than 100 beds can become a post-graduate institution and train the diploma aspirants. The National Board under the leadership of Dr Abhijat Sheth made it happen," he added.

Calling medical education in India an elitist affair, Dr Shetty said that the new regulations can bring down the costs considerably. He also highlighted that 500-600 odd district colleges can be converted into medical colleges to promote medical education. "The cost to set up a medical college is around Rs 1 lakh crore. But if existing medical colleges are asked to adopt some district hospitals, the medical colleges can take in 100 more students...train and recruit them as the visiting faculty," he added.

Talking about nursing education and why nurses are undervalued, Dr Shetty said that there is no career progression and thus no one is interested in taking up the profession.

Elgar Parishad: CM Soren, Cong support Stan Swamy

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

JHARKHAND Chief Minister Hemant Soren and his ally Congress have come out in support of Jesuit priest Stan Swamy, who has been accused by Central probe agencies of involvement in Bhima-Koregaon protests two years back. He was arrested on Thursday.

"What kind of message the BJP-led Central government wants to send out by arresting the 83-year old Stan Swamy," Soren asked. The CM accused the Centre of trying to suppress all voices being raised against it.

Hemant Soren, Chief Minister

State Congress chief Rameshwar Oraon called the arrest unfortunate and condemned it. In a statement, Oraon said: "The Central government is trying to torture the intellectuals living in different parts of the country by terming them urban naxals."

The National Investigation Agency on Thursday arrested Stan Swamy in Bhima Koregaon case, related to the violence that erupted at an event marking 200 years of Dalit uprising on January 1, 2018, leaving one dead and many injured.

"Stan Swamy has raised his voice for the poor, the deprived and the tribals," tweeted Soren.

Congress leader Oroan said the Swamy has been trying to uplift tribal communities living in Jharkhand for the last 25 years.

Stan Swamy, originally from Kerala, is a tribal rights activist, who has spent close to five decades in the tribal region of Jharkhand. He has been vocal against police atrocities on tribal communities and the government's failure to effectively implement the fifth schedule of the Constitution that deals with tribal rights.

TRP SCAM: REPUBLIC TV CFO MOVES APEX COURT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi/Mumbai

SUMMONED by Mumbai Police in connection with the television rating point (TRP) rigging case, Republic Media Network's Chief Financial Officer (CFO) Shiva Subramaniyam Sundaram did not present himself to record his statement saying he had moved the Supreme Court and the matter was likely to be listed for hearing by next week.

In response to the notice issued by ACP, Mumbai, Sundaram wrote back saying he had filed a writ petition under Article 32 before the Supreme Court and requested to defer the investigation accordingly.

While he expressed "commitment to cooperate" in the investigations, he requested the police "to not proceed any further with the investigation in so far as Republic TV and its employees are concerned" and assured that he and other employees of the channel concerned will join the probe subject to the order of the Supreme Court.

The police had issued summons to Sundaram and two other Marathi channels on Friday to appear in connection with alleged manipulation of TRPs. The summons to Sundaram said there are reasonable grounds to believe that he is "acquainted with certain facts and circumstances of the matter and the same is required to be ascertained".

The Mumbai Police had also asked several officials from advertising agencies to join the probe. Sam Balsara, chairman and managing director of ad agency Madison World and Madison Communications, appeared before the crime branch on Saturday to record his statement.

Mumbai Police has, meanwhile, roped in the Economic Offences Wing (EoW) to probe the financial angle in the scam. According to the police, the three channels had allegedly paid money to households and middlemen to increase their TRPs. "We need the EOW help to find out the financial transaction and its route and money trail," said a police officer who is part of the investigations.

According to sources, the EOW will investigate the diversion of funds and proceeds of crime in terms of advertising revenues earned through fudged TRPs. Forensic auditors will dig into the accounts of Republic and the other channels to find the alleged money trail.

The Mumbai Police on Saturday issued fresh summons to senior management of Republic as well as Hansa Research, the agency hired by BARC to install and monitor barometres.

Republic TV pleads innocence

Republic TV said in a statement that Mumbai Police Commissioner Param Bir Singh had made false allegations as the channel had questioned him in the investigation of the death of actor Sushant Singh Rajput.

I&B ministry seeks response from BARC

RITWIKA MITRA @New Delhi

THE Ministry of Information and Broadcasting has sought a report from the Broadcast Audience Research Council (BARC) over the rankings of TV channels in light of the recent alleged scam of manipulation of television rating points (TRPs).

The ministry wrote to ratings agency BARC on Friday, and the latter is expected to submit the report on Monday, following which the ministry will decide the future course of action, a senior official said.

"We have called for a report from BARC yesterday (Friday). We have sought all the details of the rankings. They should reply by Monday when their office opens," said the official.

"First we will see the report and then we will give directions. We have asked for the rankings based on the recent incident that happened in Mumbai," the official added.

When this paper approached BARC for a comment on the report sought, it said in an e-mail, "Any communication between BARC and the MIB (Ministry of Information and Broadcasting) is privileged communication. On a routine basis, we share updates with the MIB."

In January 2014, the ministry notified the policy guidelines for television rating agencies and accredited BARC in 2015 which is currently mandated to conduct television ratings in India.

Separate thresholds for 26 sectors

CITING the committee's suggestions, RBI stated it has agreed to treat a few sectors differently as certain ratios are not relevant for sectors such as aviation, automobile, manufacturing, roads and wholesale trading because of their nature. "The Expert Panel has recommended sector-specific thresholds to the mandatory financial parameters, which are more liberal than normal lending financial benchmarks", it argued. Separate thresholds have been prescribed to at least 26 sectors including power and real estate to arrive at resolution plans.

Dalits from Rajasthan, Bihar flee in fear

LIKE the Hathras rape victim's family, which has alleged that Thakurs, the community to which the accused belong, are threatening them to leave the village, the travails of many Dalit families who face atrocities do not end with the crime committed against them.

The upper castes hound the Dalits to such an extent that many are forced to flee their village and relocate elsewhere, where they struggle for a living without government support.

In Dausa's Dhigariya Kapur village, five men allegedly raped a minor in a car in her neighbourhood in June 2017. Some of the accused belonged to the upper caste. After an FIR was registered, the victim's family was threatened and told to settle the case. But when they did not, the threats increased and the minor's family had to flee the village.

"We had to leave the village as we couldn't live with the culprits around us. They would stalk us on trial dates. They also forcibly took away our 4 bighas of land. My father now runs a small tea stall," the victim's brother said. YET another rape victim and her family had to flee Bharatpur and live in Jaipur. The 50-year-old woman still recalls the day in June 1998 when a strongman in her village, Attar Singh Gujjar, found her working alone on her farm and raped her.

When she went to file an FIR, the local toughies colluded with the police and stalled the registration of an FIR, she alleged. But her troubles didn't end there. In 2002 when she became a ward panch in Bharatpur's Gothasar Bair tehsil, Attar Singh, who had raped her in 1998, was the sarpanch.

When she pointed out some irregularities and complained to the IG Police of Bharatpur against Attar Singh, he and his goons beat her husband so severely that he lost both his legs. The six culprits were sent on a seven-year jail term. But when they were released after three months, they began threatening her. The police failed to provide any protection and they were forced to flee the village.

These kinds of examples are not restricted to Rajasthan alone. In Bihar, too, Dalits have had to flee in fear. In 2014, a dozen lower caste families had to leave Gaya district following the murder of a Dalit youth, Arjun Manjhi.

Army vice-chief flags lack of desi innovation

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

VICE Chief of Army Staff Lt Gen SK Saini on Saturday highlighted the "lack of indigenous solutions" in producing cold-weather equipment for jawans. He was speaking at a webinar organized by the Centre for Joint Warfare Studies.

"Special clothing and mountaineering equipment need to be highlighted. A large number of our troops are deployed in super high altitude areas where the temperature touches minus 50 degree Celsius."

"We continue to import cold-weather equipment, mainly due to the lack of viable indigenous solutions. A collaborative effort needs to be put in this field to fulfill our vision of Atmanirbhar Bharat," said Lt Gen Saini.

The objective of the webinar was to get the defence forces, Indian industry, scientists and entrepreneurs on a common platform to understand the requirements of the defence forces.

He said 'force protection' simply means protection of all military assets ranging from physical security of a soldier to critical and sensitive military assets and infrastructure against multiple threats.

He reiterated that the character of warfare is undergoing a rapid change. The lethality and intensity powered by latest technologies, the blurring of lines between friends and foes, combatants and civilians make it imperative for militaries to adapt to safeguard themselves and succeed in operations.

"Force protection, therefore, needs to be addressed with a fresh approach," he said.

"The Indian Army has evolved considerably in terms of modern arms, ammunition, protection, kitting and clothing. However, there is much scope for innovation. There is a requirement to focus on night-vision goggles, combat helmets, bulletproof jackets, light portable communication sets and much more," Lt Gen Saini said.

"Though the industry has accepted the challenge, the solutions provided, however, lack innovation and integration," he added. The effort in this field must be to ensure a reduction in manpower commitment by integrating physical and electronic surveillance and incorporating automation and innovation in Perimeter Fencing and Intrusion Detection Systems.

"Our deployment footprint extends across varying terrains. The sheer magnitude of our requirements presents a golden opportunity to the industry, scientists and entrepreneurs," he said.

No outcome from farmers' meet; stir to continue

Punjab rail roko protest led to power outage

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

A Congress worker during a farmers conference in Jaipur on Saturday | PTI

THE ongoing 'rail roko' agitation in Punjab against farm laws is likely to continue as no decision could be taken at a crucial meeting of 30 farmer organisations in Barnala after most of their leaders failed to attend the meet on Saturday.

The protests have led to severe power outages in the state due to reduced power generation the movement of goods trains has been stopped since September 24 by the agitating farmers. Reportedly, while agriculture tube wells are getting power supply only for two hours, the domestic consumers are facing power outage during peak hours.

There has been an acute shortage of coal with only about a week's stock is left. Around 10 lakh metric tons of food grains could not be dispatched from the state. Besides, there has been a shortage of jute bags.

The railways has incurred a loss of ₹210 crore in the last fortnight as freight movement has been hit largely.

Bharatiya Kisan Union (Rajewal Group) general secretary Omkar Singh said: "At the Saturday meeting, no decision could be taken as the representatives of half of the farmer groups did not turn up. The protests will continue as earlier. The next meeting will take place to discuss the issue on October 13 in Jalandhar where some decisions are expected to be taken."

He alleged that the government was trying to divert the attention saying there has been a shortage of coal for thermal plants. Recently, Punjab CM Amarinder Singh had claimed that due to the blockade of goods trains, the situation at the state's coal plants was critical and they were left with only five to six days' supply of coal. The farmers, under the banner of the Kisan Mazdoor Sangharsh Committee, have been squatting at rail tracks since September 24.

PEEVED CLERICS COULD DENT TRINAMOOL'S MUSLIM VOTE BASE

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

TRADITIONALLY, the 31 per cent Muslim votes in West Bengal are largely seen as a vote bank of chief minister Mamata Banerjee's Trinamool Congress. But with new players declaring their intent to enter the fray in 2021, when assembly elections are due in the state, they are threatening to chip away at the TMC's vote base.

A prominent Islamic cleric has announced putting up candidates in 44 assembly seats. In addition, Asaduddin Owaisi's All India Majlis-e-Ittehadul Muslimeen (AIMIM) has let it be known that his party will contest all the 294 seats.

The clerics of the Furfura Sharif Darbar located in Hooghly district wield strong influence over minority voters in south Bengal. The proof is the shift in the community's preference from the Left Front to the Trinamool in the 2011 polls. They also helped Mamata to build up two mass movements in Nandigram and Singur during the Left Front rule.

Now, a few influential clerics of the Furfura Sharif are now threatening to either field candidates or campaign against the ruling party, raising the prospect of a split in the Muslim votes.

Abbas Siddiqui, chief of the Ahle Sunnatul Jamaat, has said his organisation will ask the ruling Trinamool to make way for the party in 44 seats. "If the TMC doesn't contest against us in 44 seats, we will support them in the remaining seats. If it rejects, then we will campaign against the Trinamool wherever Muslims are a deciding factor," said Siddiqui's spokesperson.

Another cleric, Pirjada Twaha Siddiqui, said he has repeatedly asked TMC leaders to expel some of the party functionaries. "There are many TMC leaders who are Mamata followers during the day and BJP activists after sunset. If the TMC fields such faces in the elections, we will expose them," he said.

Given the Furfura Sharif's influence, sources said the BJP tried to reach out to its clerics. The party's central observer for West Bengal, Kailash Vijayvargiya, contacted a cleric and sought his "cooperation."

"Vijayvargiya called me and requested me to visit Delhi. He wanted to discuss certain issues with me and sought our cooperation in the election but I turned down his proposal to visit Delhi," said Twaha Siddiqui.

"Furfura Sharif clerics can change a political party's fortunes in south Bengal. We bagged seven out of eight Lok Sabha seats in north Bengal in the 2019 general election. Our mission is now in south Bengal," a BJP leader said.

On Siddiqui's importance, the BJP leader said there was a margin of only 3 per cent in the vote share of the BJP and the TMC in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections. "If there is a 1-2 per cent swing in the TMC's Muslim votes, Bengal's political landscape could change in 2021. We are not expecting Muslims to vote for us. But if the clerics field candidates against the TMC, there would be a split in the TMC's minority vote bank, benefiting the BJP," he said.

The AIMIM appears to be another spoiler for the TMC. "Our party chief Owaisi is scheduled to visit Kolkata on Nov 4. We are shortlisting issues to be highlighted in our manifesto," said Jamirul Hassan, the chief of AIMIM's West Bengal unit.

"If Owaisi and Abbas field candidates against our candidates and Muslim voters shift their allegiance, it could a big headache for us," a senior TMC leader admitted.

FOUR militants, including a top Lashkar-e-Taiba commander and a Pakistani national, were killed in two separate gunfights in Kashmir, while the Army foiled a weapon smuggling attempt from across the Line of Control (LoC) in Keran sector of Kupwara district on Saturday.

A police official said a contingent of the J&K Police, the CRPF and the Army launched a joint search operation at Chinigam area of south Kashmir's Kulgam district after receiving inputs about the militants' presence. He said two Jaish-e-Mohammad militants — a Pakistani national Sameer Bhai alias Usman and a local, Tariq Ahmad Mir — were killed in the gunfight. Both the militants, according to the police, were involved in attacks on police and security forces.

A few hours later, another gunfight broke out between militants and security forces at Dadoora in Kangan area of Pulwama district.

In the hour-long encounter, two local militants, including a top Lashkar commander Zahid Nazir Bhat alias Zahid Tiger, were killed. Bodies of all the four militants buried quietly by the police in a north Kashmir graveyard. After the Covid-19 outbreak, the police are not handing the bodies of local militants to their families.

Meanwhile, a defence spokesperson said Army personnel deployed along the LoC noticed a group of 2-3 people transporting some items in a tube tied to a rope across the Kishenganga river in Keran sector.

The troops, he said, immediately rushed to the area and launched a search operation. "During the searches, four AK-74 rifles, eight magazines and 240 rounds were recovered from the site," he said.

General Officer Commanding of Srinagar-based Army's 15 Corps Lt Gen Gen B S Raju said the incident shows there was no change in Pakistan's intentions and policy. "We are ready to foil all their nefarious designs in future," he said.

ELECTION

J&K panchayat bypolls likely next month

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Srinagar

THE bypoll for over 13,000 vacant panch and sarpanch seats in J&K is likely to be held next month. This will be the first electoral exercise in the Union Territory since the scrapping of Articles 370 and 35A and the bi-furcation of the state.

About 1,089 sarpanch and 12,168 panchs seats are vacant in the Union Territory. According to sources, the government will issue a notification on the byelections shortly.

They said the elections may be held in seven or nine phases due to security concerns and the Covid-19 pandemic. The Administrative Council (AC) led by Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha had last month approved the proposal of Department of Rural Development and Panchayati Raj to issue notification for conducting elections to the vacant seats.

Earlier, the poll for vacant panchayat seats was scheduled to be held in eight phases between March 5- 20 this year. However, the election was postponed due to law-and-order concerns and outbreak of coronavirus pandemic. According to officials, the filling of the vacant panchayat posts would ensure devolution of powers and proper grass-root planning in the 3rd-tier of the local self government and ensure that non-functional panchayats become fully functional.

Rajasthan priest cremated after family offered ₹10 lakh aid, govt job & house

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE family members of a temple priest, who was burnt alive allegedly by land grabbers in Rajasthan's Karauli district, on Saturday performed his last rites after they were assured of ₹10 lakh financial assistance, a government job and a house under the Indira Awas scheme and an assurance that all the absconding accused will be arrested at the earliest.

Babu Lal Vaishnav's family had demanded a compensation of ₹50 lakh, a government job for one of its members and early arrest of the accused. They also wanted the government to take action against the local Patwari, the SHO and cops who did not take firm action against the culprits. Since morning, people in large numbers had gathered at the priest's home in Bukna village.

Among those who joined the dharna was BJP Rajya Sabha member Kirori Lal Meena and former MLA of the area Man Singh. Meena took a swipe at Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and asked him to visit the village and meet the priest's family.

Vaishnav was caught by five people, who wanted to encroach on temple land, near an agriculture farm in Bukna village on Wednesday and set on fire after pouring petrol on him. He was admitted in a critical condition to the SMS hospital in Jaipur where he died on Thursday night.

The BJP is also planning to intensify the pressure on the Ashok Gehlot government over the incident, with party's state chief Satish Poonia forming a three-member committee to inquire the murder. The Karauli incident came up during discussions between Governor Kalraj Mishra and Gehlot about the law and order situation, according to Raj Bhawan sources.

Mishra expressed concern over the incident and the rape of a minor in Barmer. Chief Minister Gehlot told the Governor that the state government has taken cognizance and the culprits will not be spared, the sources said.

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

The state cabinet also approved a proposal for a light rail transit system to ease traffic in Gorakhpur. Besides, it approved a detailed project report for the system.

'Even ardent supporters wouldn't say Imran delivered on promises'

Declan Walsh, who covered Pakistan, Afghanistan and South Asia for The Guardian and The New York Times from Islamabad and New Delhi, in his new book The Nine Lives of Pakistan shows Pakistan in a different light than what it is seen in contemporary perception. He speaks to Pushkar Banakar about his new book and what led to Pakistan's crumbling democracy and why he was ousted from the country.

Pakistan is widely considered a failed democracy but you in your book have illustrated the country as a beautiful one. What makes you feel contrary to the 'normal' view?

I'm not sure that democracy and natural beauty necessarily correlate, but I certainly did find Pakistan to be an engaging place to live and work. Certainly, there were times when I was frustrated, worried and even scared. By the time I left, I had deleted the names and numbers of an alarming number of contacts who had died prematurely after being kidnapped, bombed or assassinated. There were other times when I was inspired or touched by people I met, or exhilarated by my reporting experiences. Those two extremes could be linked – sometimes it was in the moments of adversity that I found most to admire. As a reporter, that's the kind of complexity that makes for interesting stories.

The role of the military in Pakistan's affairs is beyond doubt. Yet, you paint the picture of Zia ul Haq as a pious man. However, you describe General Parvez Musharraf differently. Can you please elaborate? Both being military men, who do you think damaged the country more?

They did different kinds of damage. Zia was the ideologue, a pious man who exploited religion to project his authority and strength. He imported an ascetic, Wahhabi-style flavour of Islam from Saudi Arabia and introduced sweeping legal and social changes that still haunt Pakistan today — the blasphemy laws, the coddling of jihadi militants, and so on.

Musharraf claimed to be the opposite: a secular modernizer who liked whisky, dogs and fashion shows. He reformed some of the hated Zia-era Hudood laws. But his ultimate loyalty was to the military, which meant that many of his so-called reforms were superficial, even though it wasn't reciprocated. When the contradictions of Musharraf's rule became too glaring, his fellow generals let him fall. Musharraf grappled with the demons Zia had created, especially the jihadi groups. But while he tried to tame some, like the Pakistani Taliban, he co-opted or protected others, like Lashkar-e-Taiba. It pointed to the broader truth: the damage done by both leaders was also the bidding of an unaccountable institution, the military, which is the real story.

Speaking of Benazir Bhutto's failure, you say that her constant grappling with the Army was the main reason. Is it fair to say that any leader in Pakistan is deemed unsuccessful if he does not enjoy a good equation with the military establishment?

The historical record is clear: it never ends well for Pakistani politicians who clash openly with the military. The hanging of Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, under General Zia, in 1979, was a trauma for the political class that continues to reverberate today. It established a powerful precedent: this was how far the generals were willing to go to maintain their grip. Success, however, is a different matter. Prime Minister Imran Khan has avoided tensions with the army by surrendering control of the most important issues: Afghanistan, India, militancy, national security. But that's left him in the passenger seat of power, stewarding an ailing economy and overseeing fearsome repression of the free press. Two years on, I don't think even his most ardent supporters would say that he's delivered on his promises.

You were sent away from Pakistan. According to you, what factors were responsible and do you think the military establishment played a role in your ouster?

The letter announcing my expulsion, which was handed to me at midnight just before the 2013 election, was written on Interior Ministry paper. My visa was being cancelled on account of my "undesirable activities," it said. I quickly learned, through a senior contact at the ISI, that it was behind the expulsion.

After I landed in London, I spent several years trying to figure out what those undesirable activities were. It became a starting point for the book, a mystery to be solved.

Manto is not the first person that comes to mind when a normal person thinks of Pakistan, given its current place in the global order. What drifted you to draw a literary analogy while describing Pakistan?

As I tried to make sense of the chaotic, often confusing events that were unfolding before my eyes in Pakistan, I found myself being drawn to the country's history as a means of understanding them. Even though my book is about contemporary Pakistan, I felt it was important to root in the narrative in a short, early chapter that describes the country's origins in the heady politics of pre-partition India. I focused mainly on Jinnah, but I also wanted to feature a secondary character who could provide a voice for the many Indian Muslims who were not so politically invested in partition, and had a more ambivalent attitude in the run up to 1947, and immediately afterwards. Manto was a perfect fit. A Pakistani friend gave me a volume of his short stories years ago, and I've devoured most of them. For the purposes of my book, he had the added advantage of being a gifted writer whose acid, brilliantly observed short stories reflected how the tumultuous events of that time affected ordinary people.

You have described Balochistan extensively in the book where you speak of the attempt to assassinate rights activist Asma Jahangir and the suicide attempt of journalist Hamid Mir. What do you think is the bone of contention between the Pakistani establishment and the Baloch provincial government?

Although Balochistan accounts for a giant slice of Pakistan — 43 percent of the country's land mass — many of its people have always been reluctant Pakistanis. In the late 1940s, parts of present-day Balochistan acceding to the new state. Further revolts, large and small, erupted, in the 50s, 60s, 70s and again in the mid 2000s. If you ask a Pakistani general, he'll blame this sorry state of affairs on Baloch tribal chieftains who have refused to relinquish their vast privileges, often at the cost of developing their own people.

DEFYING HEALTH EXPERTS, TRUMP HOSTS BIG EVENT AT WHITE HOUSE

President seeks to reboot stalled campaign; questions continue to linger around his health

WASHINGTON

Nine days after testing positive for Covid-19, US President Donald Trump delivers a White House address Saturday to hundreds of partisans, in hopes of relaunching his struggling campaign less than four weeks from Election Day.

Trump has declared he is feeling "really good" -- but doubts linger over his health, with the president's doctor appearing more concerned about pleasing his star patient than communicating transparently with the public.

"Right now I'm medication-free, I'm not taking any medications as of, you know, probably eight hours ago," Trump told Fox News on Friday night, the first on-camera interview since his diagnosis and three-night hospitalization.

For months, taking their cue from a president who mostly shunned, and at times mocked, the wearing of masks, White House advisors were rarely seen masked inside the West Wing.

Since Trump and his wife Melania tested positive, the mood has shifted. A source with knowledge of planning for Saturday's outdoor event said all guests will be required to wear a mask to listen to Trump give his address from a White House balcony.

A similar gathering two weeks ago, to announce the nomination of conservative judge Amy Coney Barrett to the Supreme Court, has been singled out as a likely source of many of the dozens of positive cases since linked to the White House.

Anthony Fauci, the respected director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease, has referred to it as a "super-spreader event."

Many questions remain unanswered about the White House outbreak, with more than a dozen cases recorded in the president's inner circle, including his spokeswoman Kayleigh McEnany.

"When was the president's last negative Covid test?" asked Pete Buttigieg, a former contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, now tipped for a prominent role in a Joe Biden administration should he defeat Trump on November 3.

Trump's biggest liability -- overwhelming public dissatisfaction over his handling of the pandemic -- has returned as the headline issue of the campaign thanks to his own infection, with cases again on the rise nationwide.

The seven-day average of new daily cases recorded between October 3 and 9 – 47,184 -- was the highest since the week of August 13 to 19 with an average of 47,530 new cases, as per an AFP tally.

White House proposes $1.8 tn virus stimulus

WASHINGTON

WITH the presidential election fast approaching, the White House on Friday proposed a beefed-up $1.8 trillion economic rescue plan to try to coax congressional Democrats into an agreement.

President Donald Trump, who this week has veered wildly in his position on stimulus to help the world's largest economy recover from the damage done by the Covid-19 pandemic, now seems to be making a major push to roll out funding before he stands for re-election on Nov 3.

The new proposal, an improvement over the administration's previous $1.6 trillion offer, brings them closer to the Democrats' latest package costing $2.2 trillion. AFP

As 2nd wave hits, Europe finds itself unprepared

ROME

EUROPE'S second wave of coronavirus infections has struck well before flu season even started, with intensive care wards filling up again and bars shutting down. Making matters worse, authorities say, is a widespread case of "COVID-fatigue."

Record high daily infections in several eastern European countries and sharp rebounds in the hard-hit west have made clear that Europe never really crushed the Covid-19 curve as hoped, after springtime lockdowns.

Spain this week declared a state of emergency for Madrid amid increasing tensions between local and national authorities over virus containment measures. Germany offered up soldiers to help with contact tracing in newly flaring hotspots. Italy mandated masks outdoors and warned that for the first time since the country became the European epicenter of the pandemic, the health system was facing "significant critical issues" as hospitals fill up.

The Czech Republic now the highest per-capita infection rate on the continent.

N Korea displays huge new missile

ROME

NORTH Korea showed off a gigantic new intercontinental ballistic missile Saturday that analysts described as the biggest of its kind in the world, as the nuclear-armed country defied the virus threat with thousands of maskless troops taking part in a military parade.

The ICBM, carried on a transporter-erector-launcher with no fewer than 11 axles, rolled through Kim Il Sung square as leader Kim Jong Un watched from a rostrum, footage from state broadcaster KCTV showed.

Several analysts described it as the largest road-mobile liquid-fuelled missile anywhere, with Harry Kazianis of the Center for the National Interest saying it was "much bigger and clearly more powerful than anything in the DPRK's arsenal". Nuclear negotiations between Pyongyang and Washington have been deadlocked since the collapse of the Hanoi summit early last year and the North is widely believed to have continued to develop its weapons throughout the diplomatic process.

It already launched a missile with the range to reach anywhere in the continental US in 2017. AFP

Armenia-Azerbaijan truce fails to hold, minutes after deadline

Azerbaijan's solders walk in a formation on a road during a military conflict in the separatist region of Nagorno-Karabakh | AP

STEPANAKERT

Armenia and Azerbaijan traded accusations of new attacks on Saturday in breach of a ceasefire deal to end nearly two weeks of heavy fighting over the disputed Nagorno-Karabakh region.

The two sides agreed to implement the ceasefire from noon (0800 GMT) Saturday, after 11 hours of talks in Moscow, but it took only minutes after the deadline for their forces to claim new attacks.

An ethnic Armenian enclave of Azerbaijan, Karabakh broke from the country's control in a war in the 1990s that killed some 30,000 people.

Its separatist government is strongly backed by Armenia, which like Azerbaijan gained independence with the 1991 collapse of the Soviet Union, and Baku accuses Yerevan of occupying the region.

The heaviest clashes since the war erupted on September 27, with more than 450 people reported dead, thousands forced to flee their homes and fears the fighting could escalate into a devastating all-out conflict. An Armenian defence ministry spokeswoman said that "in disregard of the previously declared humanitarian ceasefire" Azerbaijani forces had launched an attack on the frontline at 12:05 pm.

Azerbaijan's defence ministry said Armenian forces had also carried out attacks on the frontline and were shelling two populated areas. AFP

Govt may invite fresh bids for Concor, SCI next month

Officials have indicated all clearances may come by end of October

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

THE Finance Ministry has decided to speed up the divestment process from this month end, starting with fresh bids for Concor and Shipping Corporation of India (SCI). Plans for both strategic and non-strategic divestment were put on hold in the wake of the outbreak of Covid-19 and amid volatile stock markets.

"Recovery is happening and we expect things to improve with the upcoming festive season. So the process of divestment will be restarted in an aggressive way. We are expecting to start with Concor by the first week of November, followed by SCI," a senior official from the Department of Investment and Public Asset Management (DIPAM) said. The official added that the Ministry of Railways is in the advanced stage of framing a new land licensing fee policy and even out all other deadlocks which had halted the divestment process.

"The Ministry of Railways hinted that by October third week all clearances will come. Post that the deck will be cleared for Concor, " said the official.

The Finance Ministry had set a divestment target of ₹2.10 lakh crore for this fiscal year, which includes the sale of Air India, IPO of Life Insurance Corporation of India (LIC), stake sale in IDBI Bank, Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd (BPCL), Container Corporation of India Ltd (Concor) and Shipping Corporation of India Ltd (SCI). However, none of these have been able to take off so far. The Air India stake sale is stuck over debt, and experts claim LIC IPO might not happen this year.

Besides, the government has already extended BPCL stake sale for the fifth time this year, following poor market condition. So far, the government had been able to achieve only ₹16,000 crore from divestment proceeds.

Last month, DEA Secretary Tarun Bajaj, while announcing the borrowing calendar, had admitted that the government may not be able to achieve its divestment target and added that it is reworking the divestment target.

India's green shoots of recovery still in fragile state, say experts

JAYANTA ROY CHOWDHURY @ New Delhi

HIRAK Mandal, 42, a master mason-turned small time contractor has managed to find work for himself and his small team of construction workers at a flyover site on the outskirts of Delhi after four months of struggle.

"First two months of the lockdown saw all construction work being banned and we sat at home. Then we started getting small jobs, but I did not have people (as most labour had left for their villages) to do them ... now people have started coming back and some work has opened up. Times are slowly improving," said Mandal, who shifted from his native Bihar to Delhi's Tughlakabad shanty-town two decades ago.

Some high frequency indicators now point to green shoots of economic revival. GST collections rose by nearly 4 per cent year-on-year in September. Purchasing Managers' Index for manufacturing touched an over eight-and-a-half-year high at 56.8 in the same month. Passenger vehicle sales increased sharply by 31 per cent, while freight carriage rose 15 per cent and power consumption grew by 5.6 per cent.

However, many believe it is not yet time to celebrate. "The recovery is fragile," M Govinda Rao, former Member of the PM's Economic Advisory Council told this publication, adding "there are still too many hotspots, pandemic numbers are still up and other contrarian signals."

In a note for Brickworks Rating, Rao pointed out that capital expenditure on new projects declined by 8 per cent in the second quarter over the same period last year, showing a continuous declining trend. Core sector growth was (-)8.5 per cent in August. While the credit-deposit ratio declined in the three fortnights ending September 11, 2020.

India's non-oil, non-gold imports dipped 13.3 per cent in September, a sure sign that manufacturing hasn't yet taken off and demand remains weak. Said Aditi Nayar, principal economist at ICRA, "the sharp gap in non-oil, non gold merchandise imports remains a cause for concern regarding the strength of domestic demand."

Projects which are the lifeblood for people like Mandal, were among the worst hit. Compared to ₹1.3 lakh crore worth of projects being completed every quarter in 2019-20, in the June quarter of this year, just ₹32,600 crore worth of projects were completed according to data compiled by CMIE. "Capital expenditure which fuels growth remains weak ... we are still not out of the woods," said Rao, who recommends huge public spending and banking restructuring funded by a massive round of divestment as the way out.

"The stimulus package announced (by the Government) so far does not entail a substantial fiscal package. The quick economic revival requires the government to loosen its purse to augment aggregate demand," Rao noted.

BIG TECH MONOPOLY IN THE US FACES HEAT

BIG Tech is under fire. Two important reports, on divergent issues but underlying the monopoly power of the technology giants, hit us last week. Both have been underreported in our media. The big one is from the US House of Representatives' Judiciary Sub-Committee on Anti-Trust which has lambasted the monopoly power of the Big Four - Amazon, Apple, Facebook and Google. The 16-month investigation says these companies have become anti-competition monoliths and the US needs new laws to break up these companies.

"To put it simply, companies that once were scrappy, underdog startups that challenged the status quo have become the kinds of monopolies we last saw in the era of oil barons and railroad tycoons," the report's introduction states.

The report, penned by the majority Democrats on the panel, poses no immediate threat to the tech giants. It is guidance to the US Congress on shaping future legislation. The Republicans differ on the law process, but are one with the Democrats that these Big Tech monopolies are a real threat to competition. That's significant. This kind of Congressional attention heralds action will follow, especially if Joe Biden wins in November.

KILLING COMPETITION

The report accuses Amazon of having cornered close to 50% of the US e-commerce market (not 40% as estimated by research firm eMarketer) by unfairly gleaning data from third-party sellers. Amazon then uses the information to develop its own brands, giving them exclusive merchandising space on its virtual shelves, and thereby kills competition.

On FB, the Subcommittee says it had used the path of acquisition, as in the case of Instagram which it acquired in 2012 and WhatsApp in 2014, to "neutralize a nascent competitive threat". Google, on the other hand, has snuffed out competition with a strategy of undermining what the report called "vertical search providers" in specific areas such as Yelp for restaurants and Expedia for travel.

Big Tech is not taking it lying down. "Acquisitions are part of every industry, and just one way we innovate new technologies to deliver more value to people," a FB spokesperson said.

The fact is the big technology guys are getting richer faster than the others, and at a time when the Covid pandemic is threatening to make poverty once again a global crisis. A report from the Swiss bank UBS and PwC last week shows the wealth of the world's billionaires reached a new record high in the middle of the pandemic on the rebound in tech stocks.

During 2018, 2019 and the first seven months of 2020, technology billionaires' total wealth increased 43% to $1.8 trillion, and healthcare billionaires by 50% to $659 billion. This is way above the 19% median increase for Billionaires as a whole over the same period. The pandemic also made no difference to the 643 wealthiest Americans, including Amazon's Jeff Bezos and Tesla's Elon Musk. They raked in $845 billion in combined assets between March and September, multiplying their wealth by nearly a third, the report said.

'BREAK THEM UP'

Elizabeth Warren, Senator and former aspirant for US presidentship, has been a big antitrust campaigner. Demanding breaking up the Big Four, she has pointed out how they have become a drag on innovation and competition. "Venture capitalists are now hesitant to fund new startups to compete with these big tech companies because it's so easy for the big companies to either snap up growing competitors or drive them out of business. The number of tech startups has slumped, there are fewer high-growth young firms typical of the tech industry, and first financing rounds for tech startups have declined 22% since 2012."

She has been demanding legislation that requires large tech platforms to be designated as "Platform Utilities" and broken apart from any participant on that platform. These companies would be prohibited from owning both the platform utility and any participants on that platform. Second, she advocates appointing proactive regulators committed to reversing illegal and anti-competitive tech mergers.

The US has a long history of anti-monopoly action. Standard Oil, built by John Rockefeller into a huge production, processing and distribution monolith that forced out competition, was forcibly split up in 1911 into 30 different companies. More recently, and what Big Tech forgets, is that Microsoft, the dominant force of the 1990s, was stopped by anti-monopoly action and helped Internet companies like Google and FB to grow.

In India, super monopolies riding technology are just beginning to emerge. In telecom, from a dozen players a decade ago, we are down to just 3 - Reliance Jio, Airtel and Vodafone Idea (Vi). No prizes for guessing who is likely to win the final lap. FB is already a shadowy force that is influencing elections and monopolizing the channels of news and information. The Competition Commission (CCI) established in 2003, to regulate monopolies, has so far proved to be a fairly toothless body. But then that is another discussion.

'Volvo trucks benefitted from mining sector revival'

BINITA JAISWAL @ Chennai

BULLISH about the Indian market, Kamal Bali Managing Director of Volvo Group India spoke to this reporter about rising demand for Volvo trucks, the firm's upcoming innovation centre and other issues:

Though sales are improving, the commercial vehicle segment is still under pressure. How is the situation for Volvo?

Volvo Group India's business includes trucks, buses and construction equipment. Almost 40 per cent of our revenue comes from the truck segment while construction equipment segment contribute 30 per cent and buses another 10 per cent. The remaining 20 per cent comes from our services. In trucks and construction equipment, we have reached our pre-Covid sales figure in September. Till June we lost almost 50 per cent of our business, but things started improving from July onwards. However, in bus segment we are still at 20 - 25 cent of pre-Covid level sales. Demand will remain low for now as people are reluctant to travel by public transport.

What has pushed the demand for your trucks?

Volvo trucks are mainly used in mining activities. As the mining sector opened up there was huge pent up demand which brought good traction for us. Adding to it, recent reforms in the coal mining sector have also boosted our sales.

Your expectations from the upcoming festive season?

Looking at the encouraging demand, we are expecting a marginal growth of about 5% to 7% in our truck business during the festive season (September to December period) over last year. At times even if there is demand, customers face problems due to lack of retail finance from banks. To resolve the issue, we have Volvo Financial Services to provide financing solutions to customers. Besides, we are also hopeful that the festive season will bring more traction to our construction equipment segment.

How is the overall business scenario for construction equipment?

Thanks to a number of government projects and the national infrastructure pipeline, we have been receiving good response. We will do reasonably well and probably will be able to reach last year's figures in this segment.

Digital transformation has been the buzz word during the Covid times...

We have been continuously investing in strengthening our digitization and innovation wing. We have been working on artificial intelligence, embedded electronics and very soon our Innovation Centre, which is coming up at Banglore, will become operational. This is our first innovation centre outside of Sweden.

We are bullish about Indian market and we have started exporting engines from our Pithampur plant to other countries. We also have plans to introduce a fossil fuel free version of all our products by 2030.

MENTAL HEALTH

Employers address stress at workplace

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

THE first half of 2020 has thrown open a myriad of challenges related to mental health and well-being of employees. Employees are feeling the burn from a persistent WFH culture, managing household chores, facing threat of pay-cuts, layoffs besides fear of deterioration in physical health.

A linkedin Workforce confidence index found that 42 per cent of the remote workers in India were concerned about long hours on the job and balancing work-home life followed by factors like financial insecurity and social isolation, triggered by the pandemic. However, the Indian companies have now actively started reaching out to their workers in order to address the new mental health challenges posed by the pandemic.

For instance, edtech firm, Byjus on the eve of World Mental Health Day, 2020 announced an initiative for its employees to seek online, real-time counselling and explore wellness resources on the platform. The Let's Talk initiative focuses on prioritising as well as sensitising employees around the concept of counselling.

Logistics firm, DHL Express, India Pvt Limited has enlisted a third-party counseling service free of cost to all our employees. "We also created a 'Work from Home' guide... We are running a week-long awareness drive for our employees to mark the occasion of #WorldMentalHealthDay2020, sharing small activities to relieve stress and prioritize their mental health," Subramanian R.S wrote in a Linkedin post.

Similarly, Marico Limited's Chief Human Resource Officer, Amit Prakash said the company has teamed up with the wellness coaches to address mental health issues.

Key metrics soar for life insurers in September

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AFTER having reported consecutive months of business contraction since the outbreak of the pandemic in March, India's life insurers seem to have finally arrested the dive in September.

Data from government agencies and industry analysts show that key metrics such as individual weighted received premiums (WRP)—a measure of traction in the retail segment—and, first-year and single premiums have all registered substantial growth during the month.

The industry's WRP rebounded to a growth of 4.1 per cent year-on-year (y-o-y) compared to a fall of 2.3 per cent y-o-y in August 2020, while for private insurers the number stood at 3.6 per cent against a contraction of 5.8 per cent in August. "The overall industry, which has reported decline since the Covid-19 outbreak, has thus reverted to the positive trajectory for the first time since January 2020," Motilal Oswal analysts noted.

The shadow of the pandemic lays long over the figures for the first half of the financial year (H1FY21), however. While private players' individual WRP declined 11.4 per cent y-o-y, for the whole industry, it dropped by 7.4 per cent.

According to data from insuarance regulatory body IRDAI, first year premium collections also soared 26.5 per cent y-o-y in September, a far cry from the levels recorded in the previous months — August (14.8 per cent), July (6.9 per cent), June (-10.5 per cent), May (-25.4 per cent), April (-32.6 per cent), and March (-32.2 per cent).

RAFAEL NADAL, SPAIN

HISTORY CHAPTER

The latest act in a rivalry that's spanned more than a decade will play out at Court Philippe Chatrier on Sunday. A look at the numbers and talking points...

WHAT'S AT STAKE?

A lot. If Nadal wins, he will equal Roger Federer's men's record of 20. If Djokovic wins, the Big Three will be split by two Slams. The last time Nadal and Federer were on level terms was in 2003 July when both had yet to win a Slam. The last time the Serb was within one behind the Spaniard was in July 2006.

PHENOMENON

Death, taxes and Nadal winning on Paris' red clay. This has become one of tennis' most predictable outcomes. He has played 101 matches in total, winning 99 of them. He has only lost two matches. And one of the players to have beaten him here will be across the net on Sunday.

THE GOAT DEBATE

Players have been hardwired to speak in corporate terms but make no mistake, the one that drives both of these two every morning is to finish on top of the pile. And whoever wins will take a significant step towards winning this debate (if one goes by trophy count).

DJOKOVIC EYES REVIVAL

It's possible that the World No 1 will be eyed suspiciously. His 2020 included a belief in pseudo science, being outed as a possible anti-vaxxer, organising a Covid-19 superspreader event, forming a breakaway body in short notice, before hitting a lines official with a stray ball.

13 If Nadal wins, it will be his 13th French Open title. He is yet to lose a final

2019 This will be their first Slam final since the Aus Open 2019

2 If the Serb wins, he will become just the third man to win two career Majors (winning each Slam at least twice)

RACE TO TOP: 20-20-17 OR 20-19-18

Nadal & Djokovic set for 56th career meeting in French Open final

AP @ Paris

GO all the way back to June 8, 2006, when Rafael Nadal moved on at the French Open after his 19-year-old, 63rd-ranked opponent in the quarterfinals quit because of a bad back while trailing two sets to none.

That opponent's assessment of Nadal after facing him for the first time as pros: "He's the best on this surface, but he's not unbeatable. That's for sure."

Hmmmm.

That foe? Novak Djokovic. Fast-forward to the final at Roland Garros on Sunday, when No 1 Djokovic and No 2 Nadal will stand across from each other once again, only this time in October after the tournament was postponed because of the coronavirus pandemic. It will be their 56th tour-level meeting — more than any other pair of men in the Open era, which dates to 1968. And let's not forget the big picture: This match carries significant weight in the Grand Slam standings that so many fans, and the players themselves, keep tabs on.

Roger Federer, who is 39 and missed most of this season after having two knee operations, owns the men's record of 20 major championships. Nadal, who is 34, is next among men with 19; Djokovic, 33, stands third with 17. After Sunday, either Nadal will pull even with Federer for the first time since they were tied with zero apiece, or Djokovic will gain on the leading duo and the totals will read 20-19-18. For now, this is how each has filled his trophy cabinet: ' Djokovic: 8 at the Australian Open, 5 at Wimbledon, 3 at the U.S. Open, 1 at the French Open; ' Nadal: 12 at the French Open, 4 at the U.S. Open, 2 at Wimbledon, 1 at the Australian Open; ' Federer: 8 at Wimbledon, 6 at the Australian Open, 5 at the U.S. Open, 1 at the French Open.

All three are greats of the game, regardless of where the numbers end up, of course.

Still, as much as Nadal wouldn't engage in a discussion about his chance to catch Federer after beating Diego Schwartzman 6-3, 6-3, 7-6 (0) in the semifinals Friday, he did acknowledge that 'it's good for tennis' if others talk about it.

Rest assured, they will.

19-year-old Iga in Pole position

AFP @ Paris

Polish teenager Iga Swiatek won her country's first Grand Slam singles title on Saturday as she defeated American fourth seed Sofia Kenin 6-4, 6-1 to become the youngest women's French Open champion since 1992.

The 19-year-old, at 54 the lowest-ranked woman to capture the Roland Garros title in the modern era, is the ninth first-time Major champion in the past 14 Grand Slams. Swiatek also became just the second unseeded women's Roland Garros champion in the Open era, joining Jelena Ostapenko who claimed a shock title three years ago. "It had to be that another underdog won a Grand Slam in women's tennis. It is so often right now that it is crazy," said Swiatek, who captured her first Tour title in the process. "I don't know what's going on. It's overwhelming for me, it's crazy. Two years ago I won a junior Grand Slam (at Wimbledon) and now I'm here. It feels like such a short time."

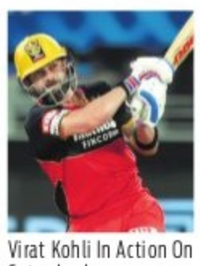
CAPTAIN KOHLI TO BENGALURU'S RESCUE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

In the fast-paced T20 format, matches are often won or lost in the last four-five overs. Starting slow is not something that teams are worried of, if they are confident of making up for it at the end.

On Saturday, the southern clash between Chennai Super Kings and Royal Challengers Bangalore saw the similar template. While Virat Kohli's men upped the ante at the death, the three-time IPL champions couldn't and lost by 37 runs chasing 170 to win. Bangalore moved to fourth on the table, keeping Chennai at sixth with five losses in seven games.



Virat Kohli In Action On Saturday | SPORTZPICS

The teams came into the contest with — middle-order problem and over-reliance on top four. Though Chennai had emerged victorious in eight of the last 10 matches against Kohli & Co, there were no favourites going into this match .

While Kohli led from the front after the top three were dismissed midway through the innings and took Bangalore to a competitive 169/4, Chennai had no one similar to look up to. It took Kohli some time to find his feet this season. Scores of 14, 1, 3 in the first three matches were followed by an unbeaten 72 and 43. He carried that form into this match with an unbeaten 90, included four fours and four sixes.

MS Dhoni & Co tried to address their middle-order woes by drafting in N Jagadeesan in place of Kedar Jadhav. After losing two in-form openers inside six overs, the debutant from Tamil Nadu showed some intent in his 28-ball 33 at No 4. He shared a 64-run partnership with Ambati Rayudu, who made 42. However, 30 dot balls in the first 10 overs meant Chennai had too much lost ground to cover in the last 10. And they once again failed to cross the finish line, losing four wickets for 24 runs after 14 overs, to eventually finish at 132/8.

Brief scores: Bangalore 169/4 (Kohli 90 n.o) in 20 ovs bt Chennai 132/8 in 20 ovs (Rayudu 42; Morris 3/19).

Stern test for RR

Skippers from Down Under will look to outwit each other when Hyderabad meet Rajasthan in Dubai on Sunday. A few talking points...

STOKES AVAILABLE OR NOT?

There is still no clarity over Ben Stokes' availability. He completed his mandatory quarantine on Saturday. Whether he is given time to have some practice or played straight up is a call that will be taken by team management. But Royals top-order including Smith, Sanju Samson and Jos Buttler have to shine with the bat.

ALL-ROUND HYDERABAD

Jonny Bairstow and David Warner are back to their best. Manish Pandey and Kane Williamson have played decent knocks. Bowling might be their weak link in absence of Bhuvneshwar Kumar but Rashid Khan and T Natarajan have dished out splendid performances to keep the team in good space so far.

67 David Warner needs 67 runs to complete 5,000 runs in IPL.

100 If he plays, the match will be Sanju Samson's 100th in the IPL.

MI vs DC HEAD-TO-HEAD MI 12, DC 12

Battle of equals

The two most consistent teams of this season — Mumbai and Delhi — will square off against each other in Abu Dhabi on Sunday. Talking points...

FINISHING 1ST LEG ON A HIGH

Both teams have a potent top-order and reliable middle-order batsmen. They are unbeaten in the last three outings. Come Sunday, they will look to outplay each other to consolidate their position on the points table and send out a strong message to their opponents for the second-leg of the tournament starting Tuesday.

EXPERIENCE KEY FOR MI

Mumbai have been IPL champions four times, the most by any team, while Delhi are still in hunt for that elusive title. Though there is hardly anything that separates the teams, Mumbai's experience will keep them in good stead in their match against Delhi. They also have a slight edge over Delhi as far as bowling is concerned. The team that manages to hold its nerve will come out triumphant.

1 Rohit Sharma needs a fifty to complete his 39th half-century, 2nd most in the event.

4 Kagiso Rabada needs 4 wickets to complete 50-mark in IPL.

Punjab choke as DK has last laugh

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

30, 0, 1, 6 and 12. Kolkata Knight Riders captain Dinesh Karthik came into Saturday's match against Kings XI Punjab in Abu Dhabi with a string of poor performances under his belt. No doubt, the Tamil Nadu man was under pressure to deliver with the bat and lead by example. The 35-year-old got an opportunity and hit an important 29-ball 58, steering his team to 164/6. That innings proved decisive, with Punjab succumbing to a two-run defeat.

In a match Kolkata had little chance of winning, KL Rahul's Punjab were in the driver's seat for a majority of the second innings and the first innings. With Rahul and Mayank Agarwal involved in a solid opening partnership of 115, their second win of the season seemed a matter of time. But things went downhill just when it appeared Punjab had it wrapped.

After the fall of Mayank who made 56 off 39 (4x6, 6x1), Punjab's heavily-criticised middle-order crumbled under pressure. Nicholas Pooran started well after being sent in at No 3 before getting out for 16. Prabhsimran Singh (4) and Mandeep Singh (0) did not help the team's cause either. The biggest blow came when Rahul (74 off 58, 4x8) fell in the penultimate over. It was a key over bowled by Prasidh Krishna, who conceded just six runs and took two wickets. In the end, Glenn Maxwell's 5-ball 10 was not enough.

Brief scores: Kolkata 164/6 in 20 ovs (Karthik 58, Gill 57) bt Punjab 162/6 in 20 ovs (Rahul 74, Mayank 56, Prasidh 3/29, Narine 2/28).
